PROMISED TO QUIT BENNER

Mrs. Freeman, Divorce Applicant, Admits Making Doctor Gift of Flowers

Admissions that she had lied to her husband, that she had promised him in the presence of three persons to have nothing further to do with the late Dr. Herbert O. Benner, that she had been out all night on several occasions and away from home for days at a time, that on one occasion, after a visit to Dr. Benner's office in Framingham, she found her husband outside sitting on the running board of her automobile, were made today by Mrs. Margaret Reed Freeman, Hyde Park heiress, who is suing Ernest B. Freeman, manager of the Sturtevant Blower Works, for divorce.

Mrs. Freeman's admissions were made under cross-examination, resumed from yesterday, by Attorney Thomas Hunt, counsel for her husband. The questions related to her friendship for Dr. Benner, the well-known surgeon of Framingham and

Attack is Made on Barracks

Dublin, Jan. 21.—The county of Tipperary was reported this afternoon to be in a state of revolt. One report was that a band of armed men attacked the police barracks and blew up the walls. Under the cover of snipers, armed men were said to have captured the station.

There was heavy fighting at Thurles, twenty-one miles northeast of the city of Tipperary. Police and soldiers were reported to have made an attack upon the town.

Constabled Finigan was attacked and wounded at midnight and was rushed to this city on a special train for an operation.

Learning of the assault, the soldiers and police turned out and attacked houses.

Windows were smashed and many shots were fired. Women and children fled panic-stricken from their homes and panic reigned for an hour and a half.

The soldiers and police at Thurles were said to have used hand-grenades to wreck buildings. The local newspaper office was demolished.

Th attackers broke into some of the dwellings and women, clad only in night clothing, jumped from windows in their fright.

Searchlights were reported to have been used to direct the operations.

The officers of the policemen and soldiers lost control of their men.

Huge property damage was done. Some of the houses were picked out especially and riddled with bullets.

Near Limerick there was fighting around a Sinn Fein "outpost." A police patrol was reported to have been trapped. Rockets were sent up for help, but the Sinn Feiners had blocked the roads to prevent reinforcements from arriving.

BELIEVE REPORT THAT OBREGON IS IN REVOLT

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 21.—Following unconfirmed reports that General Obregon is in open revolt against Carranza, advices reached here today stating that Carranza has ordered concentrated in Mexico City all the railroad material and rolling stock in the neighboring state of Michoacan. This dispatch, relating to the revolt were given credence by Mexicans here. A parallel is drawn between the government's present concentration order and similar steps taken by Carranza in 1916, when Villa was preparing to launch a rebellion in Aguas Callente.

GRANT PROTESTS NAVAL AWARDS FOR EDISON

Washington, Jan. 21.—Thomas Edison, who did nothing material in combatting the submarine, was given a D. S. medal while two naval officers, who perfected a means for fighting submarines were not honored. Vice-Admiral Grant declared this afternoon, before the Senate sub-committee investigating medal awards. Both Admiral Grant and Major-General Barnett, commandant of the Marine Corps, testified their recommendations for awards had received but little attention.

CHINAMEN HELD FOR MURDER

Police Believe White Woman Figured in the Killing of Eng Lee Mee

Yee Fat and Leon Silk were arraigned in Municipal Court today on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Eng Lee Mee, whose body was found Monday at No. 52 Beach street.

The pair, who were in the room at the time of Mee's death, according to the police, were charged with murder in order that they might be held.

The men, who were finger-printed and questioned, refused to change their story to the effect that Mee, who was part owner and cashier of the Strand Cafe, Cambridge, took his own life.

A number of theories regarding the shooting were considered by the police, the most generally accepted being that of suicide. Others included a theory that Mee's fate was the result of a quarrel over a white woman, and that he was the self-executed victim of a jury of his associates.

When the body was found, it was discovered that a bullet had entered the right side of the head, and passed out through the hat. The police found, however, that between the time of the shooting and their arrival, the hat had been turned around on the man's head.

AUSTRALIAN TENNIS MEN WIN DAVIS CUP

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 21.—Gerald Patterson, star of the Australian tennis team defending the Davis cup, clinched the cup for Australia for another year when he defeated Lieutenant-Colonel Kingscote of the English team in the singles today by a score of 6—1, 6—4, 8—6.

Though one more match is to be played, the Australian cannot lose, as they have scored three victories to one for the English team.

PERSHING PLAN IS OPPOSED

Baker Does Not Want Senate to Make Him Chief of Staff by Legislation

By International News Service

Washington, Jan. 21.—Plans of the Senate Military Affairs Committee to make General Pershing chief of staff by legislation were opposed today by Secretary of War Baker before the committee.

"We cannot make a military autocracy with one man at the head," Baker said. "Such action is impolitic and constitutionally wrong, I feel."

ACCEPEABLE TO HIM.

Secretary Baker said the appointment of General Pershing by legislation as chief of staff would create a separate war department and while Pershing would be acceptable to him and President Wilson, he might not be to the next President or Secretary of War.

"It is well to honor General Pershing, but I would not suggest this honor for him. I do not think he would be happy in the place," Secretary Baker said.

"My feeling is that General Pershing, when the new army is originated, would wish control of the several divisions in the field," Secretary Baker continued. "I think the reputation of General Pershing is secure in history. He had daring and imagination. These are the qualities of a great leader. It is unfortunate that we must couple this legislation with General Pershing."

He suggested General Pershing might be made president of the general defence board.

Secretary Baker said he had no personal interest in the matter.

General approval of the army reorganization plan outlined in the Senate military bill was given by Secretary Baker.

"It represents the most statesmanlike attempt for army reorganization attempted by any country," Baker said.

Several features of the bill were objected to by the secretary. Recommendations for changes by the secretary, the general staff, foreign representatives of the War Department, General Carter of the militia bureau, the war college and the personnel section were filed by Secretary Baker.

CALLS IT "STATESMANLIKE."

The question of representatives in foreign courts is one "which is considerable bother to the department," Baker said. "I have received the resignation of Colonel Barber from the army engineers. He was stationed in Poland to reorganize the railroads and cannot afford to hold the post at his military salary."

Secretary Baker said the provision of the bill for the organization of the militia "is excellent." He said the board to select officers eligible for the general staff should be selected by the secretary of War, with the general of the army as the head. The bill provides specifically for appointment.

MARTIAL LAW IS DECLARED IN ITALY

State of Siege in Three Big Cities Following Strike of Railway Men

By International News Service.

Rome, Jan. 21.—A state of siege was proclaimed by the government today at Milan, Turin, Genoa and other cities in Northern and Central Italy as a result of the unrest which has accompanied the new railway strike. The strike areas are being patrolled by heavy forces of troops.

A train near Genoa was fired upon, presumably by strikers.

The railway strike is now general throughout the northern and central parts of the kingdom, but the southern railway employes have not yet joined the movement.

The Catholic workers are not participating. The government, by the use of troops, is maintaining an abbreviated service on the trunk lines.

The government has issued a proclamation prohibiting assemblages of more than five persons. The confiscation of motor trucks has been ordered. The railway telephone employes are joining the strike.

The government professes to feel no alarm over the political aspect of the situation and is relying upon the public to prevent anarchistic outbreaks.

Government officials stated that the strike in South Italy, ordered from Naples, was a failure and that only 30 per cent. of the employes in other sections had quit. Troops on strike duty were under special orders to prevent sabotage.

The government has recalled all students in government schools and officers and privates who were absent on leave. Former Minister Bissolati, leader of the Right Wing of the Socialist party, is supporting the government, and volunteered his services as a strike breaker.

DENIES PLEA TO BAR PAPER FROM N. H.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 21.—Judge Edgar Aldrich in the United States District Court today granted a temporary injunction on the petition of the New England Newspaper Publishing Company, publishers of the Boston American, restraining Mayor Albert Hislop, his attorney, John L. Mitchell, and the members of the Portsmouth police force from interfering with the importations of and sale of the Boston American in the State of New Hampshire.

On the merits of the case, Mayor Hislop and his attorney, Mr. Mitchell, were given ten days to furnish evidence to show why a permanent injunction should not issue against them.

The granting of the injunction is the result of Mayor Hislop and the Portsmouth police, acting under his orders, confiscating copies of the Boston American in that city since the publication of a story which recited that members of the Portsmouth political ring, headed by Governor Bartlett and Mayor Hislop, were financially interested in amusement places which had been under investigation by federal authorities.

Bartlett, Ignoring His Advisers, Goes Into Race for Convention Delegate

Concord, N. H., Jan. 21.—Governor John H. Bartlett threw down the gauntlet to the old guard of the Republican party in this State, when he filed here today his papers for delegate to the National Republican convention.

The action of the Governor came as a great surprise. It is said that he took this step in opposition to the most earnest solicitation of his advisers, who have counselled him to draw out of the fight in face of the antagonism he has created.

In spite of these warnings, the Governor filed his papers as delegate-at-large, and entered the race as the

PORTSMOUTH HOSPITAL BANS "RING'S" SCENIC TEMPLE TO NURSES

CLAIM BARTLETT RULES JUDGE AND POLICE

contestant of Fred N. Beckwith of Dover, and Major Frank Knox of Manchester, former service men.

WANT HIM DEFEATED.

In the meantime the old guard leaders in this city are openly advocating Bartlett's defeat.

The local Republican papers have taken issue against the Governor and when the March election of the delegates comes it is stated that the Bartlett ring will be smothered.

The antagonism to the Bartlett-Hislop political business organization has nearly reached a crisis in the state.

The popularity which the Governor obtained through the war because of his advocacy of the open hand for New Hampshire's returning soldiers has been deeply indented by the actual position which the Governor has taken toward returning soldiers.

The last appointment of the Governor, which goes into effect next week, that of his secretary, has caused a local opposition among the members of the American Legion who stood by the chief executive in the early days of his success.

Slated for the position of secretary was Major Charles E. Scorer, who was paymaster of the Yankee Division.

DIDN'T SELECT VETERAN.

Scorer's friends believed that his appointment was certain. His candidacy, however, was turned down, and the appointee is not a veteran of the world war.

This is not the first veteran candidacy which the Governor snowed under. A well-known veteran sought the berth of commissioner of fish and game. The Governor, after vacillating for some weeks, appointed his brother to the position.

And now the announcement of his candidacy, which will directly bring him in opposition to two World War veterans, has raised a small tempest in the fanks of the veterans, who are ready to make a practical demonstration of their animosity.

Public Slow to Take Up Numbers for Postal Stations

The letter-writing public is slow to adopt the new system of addressing mail, according to Acting Postmaster Hurley, who stated today that only 25 per cent. of the letters received were numbered.

There were numerous mistakes also, Mr. Hurley stated, but he saw cause for gratification in the fact that numbered letters had increased 10 per cent. over those received yesterday when the system went into effect.

One woman advertiser insisted on placing the number of her postal district on all mail which was sent out of the office.

Unless the public grasps the new system more readily it may be necessary to start an educational campaign, consisting largely of cards placed in street cars.

Portsmouth Hospital Girls Are Forbidden to Visit Dance Hall and Theatre

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 21.—Nurses connected with the Portsmouth Hospital have been forbidden to attend Scenic Temple and the "twilight" dance hall operated by the Allied Theatre Company, of which members of the political business "ring" are part owners, under penalty of expulsion from the institution, it became known today.

The order has been in effect since the early part of December. Officials of the hospital say that it became imperative to protect the hospital nurses and students several weeks before Lieutenant Hannibal Hamlin of the inter-departmental hygiene service begun his investigation here.

At the hospital an American reporter was told that the ban placed on the motion picture dance hall by the hospital authorities is still on, despite the assertion of Governor John H. Bartlett, Mayor-elect Hislop and the political "ring" which is so closely allied with the theatre interest that the resort is one of the cleanest and best of its kind in New England.

"The place has a questionable reputation," it was stated. "Its surroundings as to morality are understood to be not of the best, and we are of the opinion that the resort is no place for respectable young girls."

This action of the hospital authorities was construed today as a body blow to the Bartlett-Hislop forces, who are frantically endeavoring to brand the American's expose as untruthful, through a petition signed by some of the doctors and dentists here that the city is free from vice and disease.

Many doctors today refused to sign the petition. Those doctors who did sign are said to have done so because of their financial dependence on the political ring which controls the city.

HOSPITAL INVESTIGATES.

The nurses and students at the hospital are for the most part strangers to the city. Many of them come here from the smaller towns, where amusement places are few in number, and offer them little relaxation.

Among the first things that young nurses did on coming to Portsmouth was naturally to seek out the places of amusement in the city. The wider range of opportunity in contrast to their home towns appealed to their youthful fancies. They found on reaching here that the amusement facilities were controlled by one organization. There was the regular motion picture house, the Colonial Theatre, in which vaudeville and stock company plays are featured, and the Scenic Temple, in which the "twilight" dancing was an added attraction.

It was natural that the nurses were often seen in the dance hall. Then came talk among the better element of the town that the conditions at the hall were not of the best, and an investigation, hospital authorities claim, bore out the fact that it was a danger spot for their nurses, who are required to be respectable. As a result of the investigation the Scenic Temple was declared out of bounds for every nurse from that institution.

Seize Whiskey in Cellar of Portsmouth "Ring" Controlled Paper

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 21.—Twelve cases of whiskey, found by the police in the cellar of the Portsmouth Times Building, were ordered returned to their owner by Judge E. L. Guptill of the local police court. The owner first pleaded non-ownership of the whiskey, and then appeared before the court and claimed the liquor.

Information regarding the whiskey was given the police by a former employe of the Portsmouth Times, in the ownership of which Governor John H. Bartlett, Mayor Albert Hislop, W. J. Carter and Judge Guptill are heavily interested. The employe who gave the information to the police was dismissed from the paper afterwards.

SAYS LIQUOR WAS FOR ELECTION.

The liquor was confiscated three days before the city election of 1918, when Mayor Hislop was elected by twelve votes over his Democratic opponent, Mayor Samuel T. Ladd, who was running for a third term. Despite the narrow margin and the fact that the result of the balloting in Ward Four was not disclosed until the vote of other sections of the city had been ascertained, Mayor Ladd did not ask for a recount.

The Portsmouth Times employe was dismissed after the last election, in December, when Mayor Hislop was received by three hundred over Andrew Sherburne.

Federal officials are authority for the statement that more than three hundred half pints of whiskey were imported into the city to play a part in connection with the political situation.

The liquor found in the Times Building was located under a pile of coal in the bulkhead. The discovery by a member of the editorial staff that another employe was frequently intoxicated led to the finding of the liquor.

CLAIM "RING" CONTROLS POLICE.

Another development in the situation here is that the Governor's confidential secretary was recently appointed to the Board of Police Commissioners, a body designed to keep the police department out of politics.

Clergymen and prominent citizens claim that with the Police Court justice head of the Republican city committee, and the Police Commission under the influence of the Governor's former secretary, the police department is tied hand and foot.

Sex Doesn't Need Aid of Laws, Declares Mrs. Pankhurst

By International News Service.

New York, Jan. 21.—Laws designed to protect women in industry were bitterly assailed by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, noted British suffragist, in an interview given out today through the Women's Equal Opportunity League.

"If there is to be a minimum wage and hour law, make it apply to men as well as women," said Mrs. Pankhurst. "Women are no longer weaklings; nor are they children. It is ridiculous to make it appear that a mature woman cannot take care of herself. The shackles of tradition about the weaker sex must be cast off entirely."

ALL LIQUOR SIGNS MUST BE REMOVED

Liquor advertisements of all kinds must be removed or entirely obliterated, and unless this is done, such signs will be considered violations of the prohibition laws. Such were the instructions issued by Acting Collector of Internal Revenue Andrew J. Casey to his force of deputies. Collector Casey's attention was called to the number of places where some former dealers had made weak attempts to comply with the law with slight alterations of their signs, such as taking the "w" out of the word "whiskey" or the "b" out of the word "beer." These half-hearted methods will not be countenanced by the revenue department.

WANTS COAL EXPORT HELD UP FIVE YEARS

Washington, Jan. 21.—A bill to prevent the export of coal from the United States for a period of five years was introduced in the House today by Representative Dyer of Missouri. The attempt to deliver or the delivery for export of any coal is made punishable by a fine of $10,000 and imprisonment for five years, and the coal offered for export is to be forfeited to the United States government. Dyer said he presented the bill in retaliation for the Canadian government's partial embargo on print paper to the United States.

PUBLISHERS SUE CAFES OVER POPULAR SONGS

Several popular songs made an unexpected entrance into the United States District Court today when they were submitted as evidence in suits alleging infringement of copyrights. The New York music firms T. B. Harms, Francis, Bay & Hunter, and Irving Berlin, Inc., entered suit against the proprietors of the American House, the Colonial Hotel, the Cafe Minerva and Rivoli Hall, for the singing of these songs without due credit and permission.

Health Department officials today stated that the type of influenza prevalent today is less virulent than that of two years ago.

Pneumonia cases reported in the last twenty-four hours totaled eleven. The deaths reported were seven.

WALTHAM REPORTS SEVEN MORE INFLUENZA CASES

Influenza is on the increase in Waltham, seven cases having been reported in the last three days. A number of others are now under observation. HILLQUIT AND LITTLETON IN BITTER FIGHT AT SOCIALIST HEARING

QUESTION OF RUSSIA RAISED

By International News Service.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Three momentous questions arose today in the proceedings for unseating five Socialist legislators in the New York State Assembly. There was also a bitter clash between Morris Hillquit and Martin W. Littleton.

The first question was whether or not the present situation in the United States is so unprecedented that it justifies the Assembly in acting without precedent to save its honor.

The second was whether the accused assemblymen are present at the hearing by right or by sufrance, and the third was whether or not it is a crime to hold favorable opinion in regard to the Soviet government in Russia.

In regard to the first question, John B. Stanchfield, counsel for the State, declared:

"Whether precedent exists or not for what this Assembly is doing at this time, it cannot be denied that when the question of loyalty to the country has been raised the Assembly has the right to proceed as it chooses."

TILT WITH STEADMAN.

The second question was raised by Stanchfield when he declared that it was only by sufrance that the five Socialist members were being heard by the Assembly in their own defence.

This statement was hotly refuted by counsel for the Socialists, Seymour Stedman, who raised the question about Russia. He read the charge that the five assemblymen belonged to a party which had declared itself in sympathy with the aims of Soviet Russia.

"Since when," shouted Stedman, "has it become a crime in the United States for an American citizen to have opinions about foreign governments? How does this assembly know that the Soviet government in Russia is a bad government? Opinion is changing about Russia. Not many days ago the chief statesmen of the world in Paris raised the blockade against Russia and declared themselves in favor of establishing trade with Russia through the co-operative societies in that land."

"We have not charged that it was a crime to believe in Soviet Russia," interrupted Chairman Graves, of the Judiciary Committee which is conducting the investigation.

"Why is the first charge in your complaint," responded Stedman.

"We did not say it was a crime," retorted Martin.

QUESTIONED BY HILLQUIT.

Morris Hillquit, chief counsel for the Socialists, rose hastily and said:

"I ask whether this charge of sympathy with Russia and other charges, brought against these five assemblymen, are considered crimes?"

Chairman Martin said that, in his opinion, the criminality of the matters charged would have to be determined by the committee after a hearing.

"I just want to know whether my clients have been unseated because they are charged with crime or merely because there are under suspicion," said Hillquit.

Hillquit's remarks brought on the first exhibition of animosity and bitterness which exists between the two sets of attorneys and which characterizes the entire proceedings.

Martin Littleton of counsel for the State arose and demanded of Hillquit whether a man under suspicion of crime could serve in a legislative body.

"Yes," shouted Hillquit. "Men under suspicion of crime and guilty of crime serve in some legislative bodies."

"In this legislative body?" demanded Littleton grimly.

"I did not say this particular body," said Hillquit.

"Well, what legislative body then?" demanded Littleton.

Hillquit started to reply when Chairman Martin interrupted with his gavel.

CHECKED BY MARTIN.

"Gentlemen, I cannot have such a debate before this committee. You will please come to order."

Seymour Stedman for the Socialists dwelt at length on the sacrifices of the Russian people in the war. He said they had fought on seventeen fronts; that they had dissolved one army of 12,000,000 men, and that since they have raised a great army, now in existence, of 2,000,000.

$9,000 THEFTS CHARGED TO GRAHAM

Prosecution Outlines Its Case Against Former Governor of Vermont

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 21.—The manner in which the State will conduct its case in the trial of H. F. Graham in Washington County Court charged with larceny and embezzlement while auditor was revealed to the jury today by A. M. Gleason, who explained that the State would confine its testimony to the period between 1913 and 1917 owing to the statute of limitation of larceny and would show almost $9,000 was taken during that period.

These figures were given showing the overdrafts: Quarter ending February, 1913, $1,541.19; August 31, 1913, $590.45; November 21, 1914, $661.24, to two months December, 1914, and January, 1915, $215.12; total overdraft from December, 1912, to January, 1915, $1,895.41. There were some underdrafts which reduce the figure for quarters.

Other overdrafts upon which the State will depend are: July, 1915, $222.62; August, 254.22; September, $780.67; October, $287.47; November, $2,496.56; December, $113.19; January, 1916, $111.73; February, $339.15; June, $24.54; July, $468.25; August, $509.34; October, $220.83; November, $184.85; December, after that month's salary and expenses had been taken, $929.6.

The defence made a statement this afternoon of the grounds upon which it will try to prove Graham's innocence. They conceded the accuracy of the items set up in the indictment as to the money being removed, but when interrogated by the attorney-general counsel would not concede that they were taken knowingly for use in private business, because that would be equal to a plea of guilty, which they do not make.

Trinity Students Burn Effigy of Prof. Shepard

Hartford, Ct., Jan. 21.—Crowds of students burned the effigy of Professor Odell Shepard of Trinity College in front of his home here, as a mark of disapproval of his recent activities in college politics. The students blame Professor Shepard for a drive by the faculty against Professor Edward F. Humphrey, who has been asked to resign.

The burning followed the hanging of the effigy. The students stood with bared heads while the ceremony was in progress. They were not interfered with, and, when they had finished, the college janitor swept up the remains.

ALVAN FULLER URGES BIRD TO BACK WOOD

Congressman Alvan Fuller of Massachusetts has sent the following telegram to Honorable Charles Sumner Bird, after reading his decision to withdraw as a Coolidge delegate to the Republican convention:

Honorable Charles Sumner Bird, president the Roosevelt Club of Massachusetts, No. 89 State street, Boston.

Hearty congratulations on your decision to part company with the Murray Crane favorite son scheme of denying to Leonard Wood the endorsement of Massachusetts, which endorsement would put him over the top for the presidency. Would to God other Massachusetts delegates who believe sincerely in Leonard Wood, and fervently express the hope that he will be the next President, had your courage and would say in public what they say in private. How many Massachusetts delegates, for example, would declare they did not favor the unit rule, and that being the case, why not one's convictions for the honor of going to Chicago.

Murray Crane's scheme will give us a candidate nominated, as you well say, "by a back door bargain, or by a gum shoe convention." Leonard Wood is the man of all men, in hearty sympathy with the rigid ideals and sturdy Americanism of Theodore Roosevelt. When you would run as a Leonard Wood delegate.

(signed) ALVAN T. FULLER.

THOUSANDS ARE DELAYED BY STALLED CAR

Thousands of business folk on their way to work today were held up by a blockade caused by the stalling of an inbound Huntington avenue car at the junction of the old and new subways, just below Arlington street.

The tieup began about 7:30 and continued for practically an hour, cars in both directions being unable to proceed. Other divisions were affected. As a result, subway platforms were hopelessly jammed, street corners on surface lines became congested, and cars so crowded that many passengers were unable to enter.

With the added inconvenience of heatless cars, passengers finally arriving at their destination, in many cases an hour late, were thoroughly chilled.

WILLARD PROTESTS R. R. FREIGHT RATES SOUTH

Washington, Jan. 21.—That trouble is brewing for South Atlantic and Gulf ports and foreign trade interests of the Middle West was evidenced today in publication of a letter to the railroad administration from Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, announcing that trunk lines running into New York intend to fight the new freight rates accorded the South and Gulf ports by the administration. The letter from Willard and Director-General Hines' reply to him were made public today by the Middle-Gulf-South Atlantic foreign trade and transportation committee with headquarters here.

PARDON FINN AS BELLS TOLL FOR VICTIM

Councillors' Action to Parole Assailant of Hannagan Approved by Governor

Governor Coolidge and the Executive Council today unanimously accepted the recommendation of the pardons committee to pardon under parole Dennis H. Finn, a former State Representative, serving a sentence for felonious assault on Paul M. Hannagan of Lawrence six years ago.

Finn will be released from the Charlestown State Prison immediately, it was stated, and possibly today.

By a strange coincidence the vote of the committee was taken at the hour when funeral services for Hannagan were being conducted in his parish church in Lawrence.

The assault occurred in a period of financial distress in Lawrence when Finn had been discharged by Hannagan. He went to Lawrence City Hall and while enraged shot Hannagan. Finn was later sentenced to eight to nine years.

Hannagan recovered and as late as November of last year vigorously opposed a pardon or parole for Finn. The parole board reduced Finn's sentence from six to nine years which put him in the list eligible for parole as he had served four years of the sentence.

Hannagan's death was due to an illness and this month when his condition became serious he made a public statement that he no longer opposed Finn's release. As the pardon committee constitutes a majority of the Governor's Council it was accepted as certain that the pardon would be granted when a vote by the whole body is taken late today.

Senator Butler, who conducted the hearing before the pardons committee in behalf of Finn, read a letter from the Lawrence City Council in which the pardon was urged for two reasons: "He has suffered adequately," the Council said, "and Mr. Hannagan desired that he be released." The letter was signed by Mayor White, the Lawrence councilmen and City Clerk Edward J. Wade.

Patrick Finn, brother of Finn, and who is said to have contributed largely to the support of Finn's wife and two children during his confinement in State Prison, said: "Several Lawrence people are waiting to give my brother work. There will be no difficulty on that score."

NEW ENGLAND MAY BE CORPS AREA OF ARMY

Major-General Edwards upon his return from the department and divisional commanders' meeting in Washington commenced today upon the value of the conference and what it means to the officers. Conferences will be held every six months. One of the results of the outcome of the conference is the turning of the departments of the army into corps areas. When General Edwards was asked whether the Northeastern department would be one of these corps areas, he said:

"I think it possible. In the process of decentralization, it is apparent that corps areas would do the work of the army and cut down expenses during peace times." The question of universal military training came up and was agreed upon unanimously.

An anonymous gift of $50,000 to the Choate Memorial Hospital of Woburn was announced at the meeting of the hospital association today.

President Elmer E. Silver stated that the benefactor of the hospital wished to remain anonymous until death. He did not state whether the friend of the institution was a man or woman.

The income is to be used to establish free beds and provide free nurses at the hospital, and to furnish free medical and surgical treatment for the needy of Woburn.

SHOE WORKERS AT BROCKTON MAY QUIT

Strike of Fasteners and Rough Rounders Will Make 15,000 Idle

Brockton, Jan. 21.—A strike of shoe workers, which has been rumored for the last month, became imminent today with a meeting of the sole fasteners and rough rounders union.

A strike if it is called, will cause more than 15,000 shoe operatives to become idle.

These two branches of the industry have appointed a committee of thirty which will meet the general officers of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union tonight. The committee has been granted full power to treat with the general officers.

The sole fasteners and rough rounders have always been until recently, the highest paid of all the branches of the boot and shoe industry, but during the recent general wage increases all other branches have passed them in point of wage. This despite the fact that the two branches demand the most skillful workmen.

In the days before high wages these branches received between $25 and $40 weekly. They still receive practically that amount, while other branches, formerly much lower paid, now receive $75, $80 and even $90 weekly.

The sole fasteners and rough rounders say that the only offer they have received from the Shoe Manufacturers' Association is an increase of one cent per case of twenty-four shoes. Due to the nature of the work this means practically nothing at all to these branches.

While the possibility of strike has been generally denied by local labor leaders the action of the two branches makes the threat of strike imminent.

POWHATAN 240 MILES FROM HALIFAX

Coming to Port at Speed That Will Take Three Days for Trip

A wireless message was received today at the Boston Navy Yard from the United States destroyer Sharkey, which is standing by the disabled Powhatan, that they are in latitude 41.12 north and longitude 61.33 west.

This was said by Navy Yard officials to be about 240 miles from Halifax.

The Powhatan is in tow of the United States Shipping Board vessel Western Comet, en route for Halifax and proceeding at the rate of about three knots an hour. At this rate they should make port in a little more than three days.

Besides the Sharkey, the United States destroyer Leary and the steamship Northern Pacific are standing by the Powhatan. The bulkhead of the latter is shored up, according to the messages, and no more water is entering. The sea, although moderating, is still too rough to transfer passengers.

MRS. FREEMAN "AWAY FROM HER HOME MANY NIGHTS"

With Shrug of Her Shoulders Admits Expensive Gifts From Husband

No. 2 Park square, Boston, who died last December.

Mrs. Freeman said that on the last occasion referred to, she had driven out to Framingham in her automobile to see Dr. Benner, arriving about 8 p. m.; that she went into his office and remained half an hour; that on leaving, she found her husband as described, and that after some parley she returned unwillingly with him to the surgeon's office, where the three had a talk.

GAVE BENNER FLOWERS.

Handwriting experts will be called by counsel for Freeman to refute testimony given by his wife to the effect that several envelopes addressed to Dr. Benner were written by her.

One of these letters was addressed to Dr. Benner at his Summer camp in Centerville, and another was addressed to him at Framingham and was postmarked Atlantic City, during a time when Mrs. Freeman was visiting there.

Mrs. Freeman dramatically denied writing to Dr. Benner and she denied ever using the assumed names of Miss Curtis and Miss Steinert, when she talked with him on the telephone. She also denied ever giving the Framingham surgeon presents but admitted that she sent him flowers once on Christmas and again at his funeral last December.

Judge Frederick Fosdick ruled that the exhibits introduced by Attorney Hunt were not admissible at this time, declaring that all of the testimony relative to the handwriting was negative.

After being on the witness stand for two days and a half, Mrs. Freeman left temporarily at 12:25 but her cross examination will be resumed later.

EXPENSIVE GIFTS.

Mrs. Freeman told in an off-hand manner of expensive gifts which her husband made her. These included two automobiles, a diamond necklace and diamond rings. She said that when she married Freeman in 1903 his salary was $65 a week and that in 1918 he was earning $25,000 a year.

She said she hardly remembered the gifts of two automobiles. Asked if they did not cost $7,000 apiece, Mrs. Freeman shrugged her shoulders and replied:

"Oh, about $7,400."

Questioned as to Freeman's gift of a diamond necklace, she again admitted it with a shrug.

In the courtroom were Mrs. Freeman's brother and sister, Charles Reed and Mrs. Frederick S. Morton, both of Worcester.

The developments in the case today were more interesting if not sensational than previously. There were frequent objections to questions by Attorney Damon Hall for Mrs. Freeman, most of which were overruled, and on which he took exception. "Can you tell us the date your professional relations with Dr. Benner ceased" was the first question shot at Mrs. Freeman today.

"I cannot tell," she answered, as she fingered the little black leather-covered diary which she specially prepared with ready reference data for this case.

Q.—After the professional relations did you have any other relations? A.—I did not.

Q.—And you were certain those professional relations were not after the end of 1918? A.—Yes.

Mrs. Freeman was then questioned about a private account she had in a Boston bank. This was after she had been questioned as to her friendship with numerous male friends whose names were mentioned.

Attorney Hall, in the course of questioning Mrs. Freeman about checks drawn by her, suddenly asked her to write her name for him.

Mrs. Freeman wrote at Attorney Hunt's dictation, the following: "Margaret Reed Freeman, Hyde Park, Boston, Mass."

HUSBAND HARD WORKER.

Mrs. Freeman, at the further request of counsel, then wrote two words, "all" and "Henry."

Mrs. Freeman was questioned as to the possession of her postoffice box, which she said nobody had any access to but herself. She said she opened it, perhaps, once or twice a day, maybe once a week, or perhaps only once a month. She said that her husband, her children or her servants had no entry to it.

In reply to other questions Mrs. Freeman said that through the earlier years of their married life, her husband, whom she admitted to be a very hard working man, was daily away from home for many hours; but that later on he dropped in frequently, two, three and four times a day.

Mrs. Freeman was then questioned as to the time she spent away from home in 1916, 17 and 18. Attorney Hunt began by asking: "In the month of February, 1917, were you away from home?" A.—I was.

Q.—In 1918 were you away from home many times? A.—I was.

Q.—How many nights a week would you say you stay away from home? A.—Two or three times a week.

Questions as to whether she did not go away frequently without telling her husband where she was going, or that she returned after being away for hours without telling him where she had been, brought a series of objections from her own counsel and a similar number of rulings by the court.

Most of the objections and exceptions taken in each case were overruled, and Mrs. Freeman allowed to answer. She admitted there were many occasions that she went away and did not tell her husband. After another objection had been overruled, she admitted there were many occasions when she did not leave word where she was going. But she qualified this answer by saying that she left word with the household, but not for Mr. Freeman to know where I was going."

She was then questioned about Mr. Freeman's kindness to her, and about gifts he gave her. On Christmas, 1915, he gave her an automobile. He gave her another automobile shortly afterwards. When asked if these cars had

ADMITS TELLING UNTRUTHS.

Q.—Did you tell your husband any untruths in 1917 and 1918?

After a wrangle between counsel, Mrs. Freeman said, "May I answer?" and being told that she might, she said, "I did."

Q.—How often? Two or three times.

She was then asked about her male acquaintances and the name of Mr. Cutter was introduced. She knew him a number of years. Mr. Page, whom she had known for three and a half years, had visited her home. A Mr. Concannon was also mentioned.

Mrs. Freeman was handed a photograph of an envelope. She denied ever having seen it before. It was postmarked Mattapan, April 26, 1915, and was addressed to H. O. Benner, M. D., Centerville, Mass. In one portion was the name M. G. Bird & Company.

Mrs. Freeman had previously testified that she had an account at this store.

Q.—Are you very confident that you did not write that address? A.—I am.

Q.—Were you using an assumed name at Atlantic City? A.—I was not.

Q.—What was the number of your postoffice box at Mattapan? A.—Number 7.

Attorney Hunt then gave the witness a pink card and asked her this question.

Q.—Didn't you on March 23, 1918, fill out this card and sign the name Miss Margaret Reed in order that mail delivered to Atlantic City general delivery to that name would be returned to Postoffice Box Number 7, Mattapan, and isn't this writing on the back, "326 Framingham," a record of a letter which was forwarded from Atlantic City to Postoffice Box Number 7, at Mattapan? A.—I do not recall it.

Q.—Will you say that it is not true? A.—It is not true. I will say that I did not write that card. It looks like my handwriting, but I did not write it.

The attorney then showed her the photograph of another envelope and asked, "Didn't a letter like that come from Dr. Brenner to you at Box 7, Mattapan?" A.—Not that I recall.

Q.—Wasn't a letter like that forwarded to you from Atlantic City? A.—Not that I recall.

Q.—Will you say that it did not happen? A.—It did not happen.

The witness then denied going to the postoffice while at Atlantic City and denied giving anybody directions to have her mail sent in the name of Miss Margaret Reed at the general delivery.

The witness denied letters from Dr. Benner on stationery of the Henry Schuyler Hotel, Pittsburgh Elks Club, Elizabeth, N. J., Highland Court Hotel, Hartford, and she also denied that she had ever received letters from him written in Springfield.

Q.—Were you on the evening of January 16, 1918, at Dr. Benner's office in Framingham? A.—Yes, I was.

She then stated that she drove her own machine from Mrs. Cobb's house in Dorchester to Dr. Benner's office in Framingham arriving there at 8 p. m. and that she left the car on a side street near his office, remained possibly half an hour and found her husband sitting on the running board of the machine when she returned.

As a result of the conversation she had with her husband they went back to Dr. Benner's office and remained two or three hours.

Q.—Did you go willingly or unwillingly? A.—I went willingly.

Q.—Did you go home alone that evening? A.—Yes.

Q.—How did your husband get home? A.—I haven't the slightest idea.

Mrs Freeman admitted using the public telephones a great deal during 1917 and 1918 and admitted telephoning to Dr. Benner from them.

Q.—Did you ever use the assumed name of Miss Curtis when you called Dr. Benner by long distance telephone? A.—No.

PROMISED TO GIVE UP BENNER.

The witnesses admitted a conversation in which the affairs of herself and husband were discussed one Sunday night when Mr. and Mrs. Cobb and Mr. Reising were present. That was on April 28, 1918.

Q.—Did you promise your husband on that occasion in the presence of these people to give up Dr. Benner? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you promise your husband, in the presence of these same persons that occasion, that you would never communicate with Dr. Benner again? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you promise your husband, on that occasion, that you would not communicate with Dr. Benner, even in silence? A.—No, those were Mr. Freeman's exact words.

Q.—How soon after you made those promises did you see Dr. Benner again? A.—I couldn't tell you.

A new Filene store makes its bow!

Filene's

TODAY, Wednesday, January 21, an annex to the Filene store is opened. Open only a little over seven years, the present Filene store has already proved too small for our needs.

Business beyond our expectations has come to this building; busin ss so great that in less than eight years we are already forced to expand.

While the street floor of this new store will be operated on the same plan as our Automatic Bargain Basement, the new building is important to all parts of this business.

For the added room this building gives us "opens up" the Filene store all along the line. Our stock rooms will be less crowded. We can take new things in more quickly.

Ambitious plans already on paper, but held back for lack of room can now be realized.

Growing! Growing! Growing! Built on value-giving, the Filene store grows still bigger on giving better values.

And we are not unmindful of the fact that what has built this business of ours, is the best foundation upon which to build the new and larger business.

And that is BETTER VALUES!

VETERAN OF 2 WARS DIES AT LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Jan. 21.—Confined to his bed in a helpless condition for the past three months as the result of severe wounds and shell shock received in the Meuse-Argonne battle, Robert Beard, forty-five, a veteran of the Spanish-American war and the world war, is dead at the home of his sister, Mrs. Edward Roddy, No. 277 High street. He was discharged last September from the army, in which he had served twelve years.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c.

TELL DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due in most cases not to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things:

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding food that disagrees with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion as they call out as they please in reason, or else if a meal-time is to contain the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, nausea or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestive. But half a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and beautifully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestants.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the hospital form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal to see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

REBELLION IN STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" at once ends Indigestion and Sour, Acid Stomach

Lumps of undigested food cause pain. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just take a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin to find out how nicely acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the pain, acidity, indigestion and distress.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless stomach antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs so little at drug stores.—Advertisement.

PICKARD BALKED PUBLIC DEBATE ON DEAN CASE

Wrote Jaffrey Trade Board Head He Feared Bitterness Would Develop

East Jaffrey, N. H., Jan. 21.—In his reply, on February 27, 1919, to the letter sent to him by President George H. Duncan of the Jaffrey Board of Trade, eight days earlier, relative to the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean, County Solicitor Roy M. Pickard objected to certain charges which had been made at the Board of Trade meeting and balked at a public discussion of the case.

Attention is again called to the fact that all this discussion concerning the handling of the Dean case took place more than ten months before the Boston American took up the fight of the Selectmen and taxpayers, who demand that the murder of Dr. Dean be avenged.

COUNTY SOLICITOR'S LETTER.

Mr. Pickard's letter to Mr. Duncan follows:

"Dear Sir:

"Your letter of February 19 is at hand, inviting me to appear before the Jaffrey Board of Trade, on Monday, March 3, to explain the position of the county and State authorities in the Dean case. I beg to say that I must argue two cases in the Supreme Court on Tuesday, March 4, and I must go to Concord Monday afternoon. I cannot, therefore, accept your invitation for that evening.

"Reports of the Board of Trade meeting had reached me prior to your letter. These reports inform me that there were other charges made against the county and State officials than those mentioned by you.

"The complaints mentioned in your letter do not indicate whether the complainants regard the county and State authorities as corrupt or merely negligent and incompetent.

"I was informed that charges were freely made at the meeting that the county officials, or some of them, were directly influenced by other things than a desire to do their duty, and that alleged guilty parties are shielded and protected from prosecution by political or fraternal ties or influence. I am asking whether such charges were made.

FEARS BITTER DISCUSSION.

"I do not feel that it would be profitable to enter into a discussion of such charges as a public meeting, when the great task at hand is the solution of this case. I do not feel like going into a meeting where there is a likelihood of a discussion of such bitterness as would ensue if any charges of corruption or corrupt influence were made.

"A forecast of what will take place at any subsequent meeting may be drawn from what happened at the last, and if there is a likelihood of such a personal discussion I should not care to accept your invitation.

"If, on the contrary, the only matters discussed and to be discussed are those having to do with an honest endeavor to adjust differences and solve this case, I shall endeavor to accept your invitation, if a date can be arranged. As I have previously said, March 3 is not a possible date.

"I have read over your letter with great care and feel that we can get to a better understanding at a public meeting (or by subsequent letters if we find that a public meeting cannot be arranged) if you will be a little bit more specific in some of your questions.

"Some of them are perfectly plain and fair as they stand, others are so general in their charges that I feel that they should be more specific as to time, place and circumstances. Some of them, as they now stand, can be answered by a single word, and the answers, in order to be of service, ought to be more full and more complete. I assume you kept a copy of your letter and we can therefore refer to the questions by number.

DESERVES FRANK ANSWER.

"1. This question is fair and deserves a frank answer. (This question stated that Mr. Duncan and Mr. Pickard suspected Mrs. Dean of being the murderer.)

"2. This is a double question. The first part is perfectly plain. The second part assumes that I knew the results of Dr. Magrath's autopsy. I know of this only through a limited long distance talk with Attorney General Young Tuesday night or Wednesday, and I should have a copy of the report before I can answer your question fully.

"The discrepancy between the two reports, assuming that one exists, may be important or it may not be. I would be very glad to answer this question fully as soon as I am able to get a report from Dr. Magrath. The Selectmen have not furnished me and have not furnished Attorney-General Young, to my knowledge, with any report.

"3. This question, as it stands, can be answered simply and easily. It would be more satisfactory to both if you could be more specific so that I might know the concrete thing the complainant has in mind. Only in that way can there be a complete meeting of minds.

"4. This is a fair question and deserves a frank answer.

"5. The same remarks applied.

"6. The remark applies to this and also to question No. 7. (Comparison with Mr. Duncan's letter published in yesterday's American make these replies clear.)

CLAIM LACK OF CO-OPERATION.

"8. This question ought to be more specific to be of value. You say 'apparently'—what facts had you in mind that make it apparent, also in what way is the lack of co-operation claimed? That I would not aid them? That they would not do all they requested? Or how? The answer to this question may be contained in the answers to the preceding, but I am not sure.

"You need not adopt any air of apology by saying that your citizens may be going outside their province in asking you the above question. I am surprised that the '99 per cent, or more' of the people of East Jaffrey should not be a full 100 per cent.

"I hope we have no community in Cheshire County where a crime of this character will find a supporter in anyone to do other than his utmost to assist in the solution of it.

"I need not close at this time any further matters mentioned in your letter. If suitable date can be arranged I shall be glad to state to you very fully my attitude and efforts in this case. If in your judgment that would assist in getting to a correct solution of it.

"If no date can be secured, I will attempt to answer your questions by letter when you make them more specific. Some of them in their present form may be completely answered by 'yes' or 'no,' and to be of value they should have fuller and more extensive treatment.

"Very truly,

(Signed) "R. M. PICKARD."

Russia's Bolshevists Want Peace, Says Litvinoff

London, Jan. 21.—Boris Litvinoff, former Russian Bolshevik envoy to England, who has been negotiating at Copenhagen with a British mission for the release of British prisoners in Russia, professes to see in the allies' decision to lift the Russian blockade an attempt to force upon the Soviet government certain changes in its economic system.

This was one of the chief features of an interview secured from Litvinoff by George Lansbury, editor of the Daily Herald, the organ of the British Labor Party, and printed in that newspaper.

Litvinoff declared that the Bolsheviks want peace, and are anxious to turn their attention to the rebuilding of their country.

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition in Winter

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the winter months. These things which clog the pores, tend to aid wind and weather in roughening and coarsening the skin. Ordinary mercolized wax will do more for the complexion, and without encouraging the skin to chap, crack or become harsh and leathery. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of scarf skin which have been spoiled by winds or temperature. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white and soft, it does more toward perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any druggists, will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.—Advertisement.

PIERCE-ARROW SEDANS WIN WARM PRAISE

New Models Exhibited by J. W. Maguire Co. Show Refinement of Detail

The J. W. Maguire Company is showing some new models of the four-passenger Pierce-Arrow sedans, which are one of the latest cars put out by the Pierce-Arrow Company. These are very handsome cars and show the latest in refinement of details in body and finish.

HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS.

In speaking of these cars, which are also being shown at the Worcester Automobile Show, William Doyle of the J. W. Maguire Company says:

"Despite the fact that the country was at war when the dual valve six was first introduced in the 48 H. P. motor and that its interest in passenger cars was temporarily relaxed, there was an instant response to the appeal of this splendid motor.

"Nothing ever produced by this company during its eighteen years of gasoline car manufacture won such a widespread and enthusiastic response.

"With the experience gained through the operation of this first run of dual valve cars, it has been found possible to work out further minor improvements which add to the smoothness and efficiency of the general result.

CHANGE IN IGNITION.

"It is not the tradition of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company to be satisfied with its achievements. The ideal of a constant betterment is kept before the minds of officials, designers, engineers and workmen. No change has ever been made for change sake. It is only when the test of solid experiment has justified a new construction worked out in the experimental department that this development is embodied in the finished product. It has never been company policy to experiment at the customer's risk or expense.

"There are no radical changes in the forthcoming run of cars. The principal development is a change in ignition, in order to produce greater power and smoother running."

ASK MR. FIXIT

Dear Mr. Fixit: As I am a constant reader of your weekly articles on autos, I would like to ask you a few questions on my 1918 Ford, as I have it laid up now and would like to do some repairs on it.

First: I want to grind the valves and remove carbon. Is it necessary to remove the crank-case or in putting the head back is there any particular way the pistons should be?

Second: How is the commutator removed? Third: Do the rear wheels have to be greased or do the grease cups supply it? Fourth: Does it hurt the gas tank to leave gas in it?

J. K., Lowell.

First: You probably know how to grind the valves and scrape the carbon off. It is not necessary to remove crank-case to do this. You do not have to note position of cylinders in putting head back.

Second: The cover of the commutator comes off by removing the little nut and turning the lever over so that you can remove the cover.

Third: The rear wheels are supposed to be greased by the oil from the rear axle. Your grease cups should be kept filled also.

Fourth: It does no harm to leave gas in the tank, or you can empty it.

O. E. L. of Topsfield suggests that Ford owners try the following in cold weather: "Freezing begins at the drain cup under the radiator, stops the circulation, overheats the motor, and is very injurious, etc. A very simple remedy, and one easily applied, is to stretch a piece of rubber tubing over the overflow pipe and wire or tape the open end to direct the steam directly to the drain cup. Circulation will be secured in a very short time, water will stop boiling and motor will steady down to work.

Dear Mr. Fixit: I have a 1919 Ford that runs well in every way, but in going over 10 or 15 miles per hour make a grinding noise which I cannot locate. I keep everything well oiled, and use graphite in rear end. Please tell me where to look for the trouble and oblige. A. M. H., Allston.

You have "rear end trouble." Better have it looked over. If necessary to replace one gear or bearing it is better to get a whole new set as an old gear running against a new one will soon develop the same trouble.

Dear Mr. Fixit: I served in the World War [illegible] in the Motor Transport Corps and found a book that came with every F. W. D. truck entitled the "Mechanics Guide." Can you tell me where to get one? G. L. Brockton.

I have been unable to find the publisher of this book. Write to the F. W. D. factory at Clintonville, Wis., and you can probably get one there.

RUSH FOR SPACE AT BOSTON AUTO SHOW

Elaborate Plans of Exhibitors Indicate Greatest Growth in Motor Industry

In no period in the history of the automobile industry has there been such tremendous growth as has been made in the past six months. There will be more new makes of motor cars, trucks and accessories displayed this Spring than ever before.

No one thing is more indicative of the growth and the enthusiasm of the trade than the demand for space at the forthcoming Boston Automobile Show which will open in Mechanics Building, March 13 and conclude seven days later. Months before this, the first public announcement of the dates, all of the space was sold and Manager Chester I. Campbell now has enough applications on hand to fill two other buildings the size of Mechanics with a most wonderful display of motor cars, trucks an accessories. More than a hundred bona fide applicants are awaiting a chance to display their "lines."

Manager Campbell is not going to miss the opportunity of staging the greatest display that has ever been made in this country for he is now collecting for a huge building contiguous to the Huntington avenue plant and he hopes to announce in a few days that he has secured this structure.

Portage Tire Company Remains Loyal to Regular Dealers

In a recent interview Mr. Aldridge, the New England district manager of the Portage Rubber Company, stated:

"It was erroneously reported in a recent issue of this section of the american that the Portage Rubber Company has just executed what was purported to be one of its largest contracts with a local tire jobber for the distribution of its product. Mr. Aldridge, the New England district manager, advises that the Portage Rubber Company has not contracted with any local jobber for the distribution of its product, but will adhere strictly to its established policy of distribution through the regular tire dealer.

"Portage tires," says Mr. Aldridge, "enjoy an enviable reputation with the New England dealers, because of the protection policy, and the service rendered the smaller dealer, and they have no intentions of deviating from this practice."

Maibohm

Ginger!!—

Rollicking along like a thoroughbred, Maibohm tears up a hill as joyfully as it welcomes a long, level stretch of road. Let your eye run along the shapely lines of Maibohm's nimble body. Test the drowsy comfort of cowhide cushioning and satiny spring action. Open Maibohm up on a curve and feel it hang tight to the road. Spicy—that's Maibohm in looks and action.

FREEDMAN ENTERS AUTO TIRE TRADE

Max Freedman has decided to go into the tire business and has opened a store in his property at No. 529 Beacon street. Mr. Freedman bought the whole block at the junction of Beacon and Mountfort streets and realized that this was an ideal location for a tire business, as it was on the main thoroughfare between Boston and points west.

Mr. Freedman has traveled all over the United States and should be in a good position to judge locations and considers that he has picked an exceptionally good spot for business.

Mr. Freedman is a great booster for Boston as a business centre, and believes that this year will be one of the biggest in the history of the automobile business.

THREE MORE MAIBOHM DEALERS SIGNED FOR N. E.

A. V. Mann of the Mann Motor Car Company, local Maibohm distributor, left this week for the Automobile Show at Cleveland and will then go to the factory at Sandusky. Before leaving, Mr. Mann announced that three new dealers had just been signed for New England territory. John F. White for Portland, Me., Albert H. Lapham of the Rosemont Garage, Haverhill, and P. J. Keefe of the Belmont Avenue Garage, Springfield.

Mr. Mann hopes to arrange for more speedy shipments of cars in the near future and finds this necessary to fill the orders for Maibohm for this territory.

CAN YOU USE A TRUCK

Our Deferred Payment Plan has made it possible for thousands to start in business for themselves

DURING the past ten years $20,000,000 worth of Autocar Motor Trucks have been purchased on our Deferred Payment Plan. 98% of all payments due have been met in full at maturity and the balance have been met later. In the few cases where we have had to take back trucks to meet the final amount due, the trucks have been resold and generally a substantial balance returned to the original purchaser or his estate.

Autocar Motor Trucks, because of their reliability and efficiency, pay for themselves.

The distinctive Autocar system of Factory Branches insures maximum service and economy.

The price of Autocar Motor Trucks is the same whether sold for cash or on the Deferred Payment Plan, except for an interest charge at the rate of 6% per annum on any balance due.

A Deferred Payment purchaser is not penalized in any way whatsoever. Moreover, he can place his own insurance with any reliable insurance company.

RIFLE ONLY LAW IN MEXICO, SAYS RANCHER

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 21.—The rifle is the only law in the State of Coahuila, Mexico, John R. Blocker, rancher, told the Fall Senate subcommittee investigating Mexican conditions.

Blocker operates a half-million-acre cattle ranch for a stock company and declared that frequent bandit raids, lack of protection by the Mexican government and general lawlessness in that State had cost his company $2,500,000 in profits in the last five years.

A TRUE LETTER

East Boston, Mass. The following letter may bring advice to other sufferers:

"Dr. J. F. True & Co.: Having heard that your medicine, True's Elixir, had been on the market for years and years, I thought possibly my ailments would be helped if I tried it. I have spent many dollars in trying to get a Laxative which would agree with me—be pleasant to take and get effective. At last I have it—Dr. True's Elixir, The Family Laxative and Worm Expeller.

"For years I have had a poor appetite—any rich foods disagreed with me, and my medicines were frightful. I was troubled with tired feelings, nervous depression, weakness, spots before my eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, irritability, dizziness and many other signs of sickness.

"I can now do a day's housework and not mind it, and your Dr. True's Elixir is always handy—I don't know of a better laxative—I give it to my children with wonderful results—it relieves them of worms."

MRS. HELEN WOODWORTH,
33 Lamson St., East Boston.

The prescription DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR, The Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, has been wonderful for sick people, men, women and children. AT ALL DEALERS.

Should women be put on trial for their faults?

Should women be put on trial for their faults? And should they be tried by men? Are their so-called weaknesses due to the mediocre demands of men? Do women know how to stick to ideals that are not social assets? What is the type of girl that invariably becomes an old maid? Do men put a premium on virtue?

These are a few of the questions that are discussed and answered in a tremendously stimulating article called "Supply and Demand." Every woman in America owes it to herself to read it.

IN the same issue: additional stories by Coningsby Dawson, Kathleen Norris, James Oliver Curwood, Judge Henry A. Shute, William J. Locke, Agnes Mary Brownell; an interview with the Queen of Rumania; Poems by Margaret Widdemer and Louis Townsend Nicholl; "Judging the Value of a Meal," by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley; Two pages of Interior Decorating; Dorothy Dix on "The Tie That Binds"; Fashions; Child Training; Exercise and Home Hygiene; Discoveries for the Hostess; a magazine for every member of the family.

EVERY one of the 234 different advertisements in this issue of Good Housekeeping is part of a genuine reader-service department. Every advertised product is guaranteed by Good Housekeeping, the acceptance of the advertisement being subject to our own exhaustive laboratory tests. And each one, fundamentally, does much more than tell how to spend money; the announcements show how to save time and energy; they insure greater service and thereby result in real economy. Think what this really means to you.

She found herself boss of it all!

Ursula looked out over the huge smoke stacks that symbolized steel in the making. She realized that it was to be hers. And in her heart she was hiding the secret of her marriage to the poor son of a grocer. Then, the swift march of events that suddenly came into her life surprised Ursula as much as it will surprise you. Read "Children of Storm" by I. A. R. Wylie, the author of "Toward Morning."

The real yellow peril is the Japanese kimona

The causes of divorce are many. One of them, however, is the use of the kimona with its frequent, unattractive carelessness. In this article by Anne Shannon Monroe the writer outlines fearlessly some of the very simple causes of marital estrangement—causes which could quite easily be removed for the betterment of the human race.

Mid-winter fashions from Paris

News of the smart things that Parisians are wearing. Not merely the frocks and suits of the Opening but the garments the French women have selected and are using. The very latest modes which are immediately available. Variety is the key-note. 37 illustrations showing the latest wraps, coats, suits, blouses, lingerie, furs, and millinery. And the Good Housekeeping consulting fashion department is at your service.

180 Housekeepers wrote this for you

The experience of 180 housekeepers have been collected to prove that the home can be run like a business organization—on an eight hour basis.

Have children the same rights as parents?

The babies and children of today are being discriminated against and the results are just as terrible as if the motive behind the discrimination were criminal. Today's unrest and tomorrow's race-deterioration have, as a partial basis, the neglect of mothers and the greater neglect of children. Read "The Rights of Childhood" by Henry Dwight Chapin. It is a call to American parents to wake up.

"PEACE SHIP BRIDE" SUES BERTON BRALEY

New York, Jan. 21.—A romance which culminated in marriage upon Henry Ford's "peace ship" in 1915 is today drawing to a close in the New York divorce courts. The suit was brought by Mrs. Berton Braley, whose husband, a poet, is known as the "west singer of the workaday world," incompatibility of temperament is said to be one of the allegations. The papers were sealed.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). 30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

MUSTEROLE WILL NOT BLISTER

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are exposed to it by having to wear dirigible and act, 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little Sponsfix four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

BUYERS KEPT IN LINE BY POLICE DURING RUSH

Great Throng Collects at Filene's New Annex as It Is Opened for Business

Bargain hunters flocked in such force to the opening of the new Filene bargain basement annex at No. 398 Washington street today that it was necessary to call for the police to keep them in line, and close the doors at frequent intervals.

The store has but one entrance, and the men were massed outside in lines when the store was opened for business. The crowd grew instead of diminishing. The annex was opened with considerable ceremony. A military band of forty pieces provided music.

This is the first addition to the Filene store since 1912. It runs through from Washington to Hawley street, with the entrance on Washington; is 231 by 80 feet, and extremely simple in arrangement, like the bargain basement on the corner. The company points out that business in the past seven years has grown to eight times its former volume, with no increase in floor space until today. With the installation of thirty-eight nitrogen lights, furnishing 11,000 candle power, an effect almost of daylight is produced. Prices, say officials, will seem like "old times." This is possible because all goods must be bought under prices for some good business reason, such as seconds, samples, overstocks, auction lots, stores going out of business, and so on.

HANDLING OF TROOPS SWELLED TRAFFIC TOTAL

Washington, Jan. 21.—Transportation of troops demobilized after service in France was the biggest factor in swelling the passenger traffic total handled by American railroads last year, Regional Director L. W. Baldwin declared today in a report covering operations in the Allegheny region. During the year there were 7,551,319,152 revenue passengers carried one mile or over the railroads in the Allegheny region as compared to 7,115,475,452 the preceding year. The roads were called upon to handle 8,772 troop trains with 2,415,333 men.

WITH FINGERS! CORNS LIFT OUT

Costs few cents! Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out, with the fingers. Yes, magic!

A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Freezone is the sensational discovery of a Cincinnati genius.

RELIEF WORKERS IN ASIA MINOR NEED FOOD

The safety of more than forty Massachusetts persons, together with 500 other Americans engaged in relief work in Asia Minor, was endangered by the sinking of the British steamship Hurona, which carried their Winter food supply.

According to a statement from the Near East Relief Committee, cables and letters received by the New York office report that the American workers are experiencing great difficulty in obtaining food.

The Hurona sank thirty miles off the coast of Greece, after battling heavy seas all the way from New York. As soon as this became known, the Schoodic was loaded with a similar cargo and sent from New York.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

Look years younger! Use the old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

HOW I CURED MY CATARRH

TOLD IN A SIMPLE WAY
Without Apparatus, Inhalers, Harmful Drugs, Smoke or Electricity
HEALS DAY AND NIGHT

It is a new way. It is something absolutely different; no lotion, spray or sickening drugs; no atomizer or any apparatus of any kind; nothing to smoke or inhale; no ordainment in the home, something new and different; something healthful.

You have to wait and linger and pay out a lot of money. I will gladly tell you how. I am not a doctor, but I am cured and my friends are cured, and you can be cured. Your suffering will stop at once. It is magic. I am free. You can be free. My catarrh was filthy and loathsome. It made me ill. It dulled my head. It undermined my health and was wrecking my wife. The hawking, coughing, spitting made me objectionable to all and my foul breath and disgusting habits made even my loved ones avoid me secretly.

But I found a cure and I am ready to tell thousands of other sufferers that CAMPHOROLE, which can be secured at any drug store, quickly frees catarrh of nose and throat.—Mrs. E. Anderson, Huntsville Springs, Ala.

Who's Who ON BOSTON'S NEW POLICE FORCE

PATRICK F. CONNOLLY.

Patrick F. Connolly, stationed at one of the Haymarket square crossings directing traffic from all points of the compass centering at the square, is one of the few men of the new division who served M. P. with the 26th Division overseas, for nineteen months. During that time he was "gassed" twice, once at Verdun. He served at Chemin des Dames, Verdun, Chateau Thierry, in the Argonne and Meuse and the Toul sector. He is a Fitchburg man, twenty-seven and single, and resides in Charlestown. He was formerly engaged as a steam fitter in Fitchburg.

GIVE FIGURES TO PROVE CUT IN LIVING COST

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 21—The first specific figures to support the repeated claims of the Department of Justice that the cost of living was dropping were given to the International News Service today.

The figures show in detail the cost of foodstuffs in New York city, regarded by Department of Justice officials charged with reducing the cost of living as a criterion.

Of a total of nineteen items classified as "groceries," there were fifteen of increase, three lower and one unchanged, for the period from December 31, 1918, to December 31, 1919.

Eighteen items in the list of meats for the same period show only decreased price of every item, from chuck steak to pork chops.

The grocery list includes all the articles usually bought by the housewife, such as bread, butter, eggs, milk, flour, cereals and green vegetables. The total cost of a standard quantity of these nineteen different items for December 31, 1918, was $4.49; for the date of 1919 it was $4.21, a net decrease of 28 cents.

The meat list, including all classes for sale by the retailer, for eighteen items cost $7.12 December 31, 1918, as against $6.155 for the same date 1919, a net decrease during the year of 96.5 cents.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is left fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

COATS $16

You will wonder how we can offer such coats as these for $16.00. Here is the reason: We were fortunate enough to find a manufacturer who had a large stock of high grade coats which he wished to turn into cash. By buying the entire lot and paying spot cash we obtained them at such a price concession as to enable us to offer you two coats at the price of one.

These Are High Class Coats

They include high lustre broadcloths, silvertones, wool velours, bolivias and polo cloths.

Coats for Motor or Street Wear

Loose and belted models. The collars are of French seal (dyed coney) or self material. Many of these coats are beautifully lined with novelty silks and satins.

The colors are brown, reindeer, Pekin blue, terra cotta, taupe, gray, navy and black.

What We Heard from the Floor

Many good things were said regarding our sale of suits at $14.00 last Friday. One woman and her husband from Lawrence made a special trip to Boston to secure one of these suits. The husband is employed in one of the large woolen mills there. He knows high grade materials when he sees them and he knows the cost of manufacturing cloth. They bought a suit at $14.00 and figured that after paying their expenses to Boston they had saved a great many dollars, as they expressed the opinion that the suits that we offered at $14.00 would originally sell for at least $40.

These Coats are just another example of Gilchrist's Basement Values!

BRAVES' OWNER SAYS NO OFFER MADE FOR "RABBIT" MARANVILLE

READY TO SELL OR TRADE

"Rabbit" Maranville, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, is not likely to be acquired by the New York Giants. President George Washington Grant of the Braves is emphatic in his statement that no offer had been made for any player on the Boston National league team. That's one of the reasons that Manager Stallings and myself attend National League annual and special meetings," is the way Grant puts it.

But months roll on and players change baseball allegiances, and it is barely possible that Manager McGraw may hang out distress signals at the next National League confab, which may result in some changes in the Boston as well as the New York lineup. It is not impossible that the Rabbit will go to the Giants and Heinie Zimmerman, at present on McGraw's bad books, will come to the Braves, accompanied by a sufficient wad of kale to make the transfer agreeable. The same applies to Gowdy, as McGraw is sorely in need of more strength back of the bat as well as in the infield.

For many years New York has been regarded as the stronghold of the National League, and today, with Messrs. Ruppert and Huston spending a cool hundred thousand, more or less, for Babe Ruth and signifying their intention to follow with more thousands, with a view to winning an American League pennant for New York, it is hardly likely that National League club owners have any intention of sitting idly by and allowing the Giants to be ousted from their present place in the sun.

... and at the Hippodrome

A fact:

At the New York Hippodrome, drawing over three million theatre-goers annually from every corner of the country, Fatima is not merely the largest-selling cigarette—it actually outsells any other by more than two to one.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

FATIMA
A Sensible Cigarette

"Just Enough Turkish"

A Hippodrome audience may truly be called "representative" of the whole United States—so this day-after-day preference for Fatima is highly significant.

For one thing, it shows the broad sweep of Fatima's popularity.

But—more important—it indicates that men generally are growing more sensitive to the taste-effect of too much or too little Turkish tobacco in their cigarettes.

Fatima's "just enough Turkish" blend, in other words, is the one feature which sets it definitely apart from all other cigarettes—and which accounts for its leadership at so many famous places.

PAUL DOYLE PICKED BY TALENT TO DEFEAT LOUIS BOGASH TONIGHT

BOUT WITH KLOBY IS PRIZE

Battle at Fenway A. A. Second Meeting of Hustling Welterweights

By JACK CONWAY.

Paul Doyle of this city rules a slight favorite over Louis Bogash, Bridgeport welterweight, in their twelve-round bout, which will be staged tonight at Mechanics Building under the direction of the Fenway A. A. The betting was at even money the first of the week, but the abundance of Doyle money in our fair village has caused a small change in the bookkeeping entries of our best little bookies.

The contest is the most important welterweight affair of the New Year. Doyle and Bogash are classed with the best men of their weight in the country. Consequently there is sure to be plenty of action crowded into their tussle this p. m.

Matchmaker Roy Green of the Fenway Club has promised the winner of this evening's mill a match with Young Kloby, T. D. champion. This means that Doyle and Bogash will each make a mighty effort to secure a victory.

It will be the second meeting between these two warriors. Their last meeting was held at Brockton a couple of months ago. Bogash won by a long run of victories by Doyle when he flashed into the lead and won the decision.

DOYLE'S TWO BATTLES.

Since then Doyle has engaged in two of his greatest battles. He fought Young Kloby [illegible] and then went out and mixed with Shevlin even. Incidentally he also walloped Joe Welsh and Joe Foulips. The last two contests, however, were merely workouts for Tony Falcone, a sturdy warrior.

Doyle's most sensational battle was against Kloby. This was due to the fact that the T. D. champion was always forcing the issue in an effort to score with a winning right-hand smash.

Bogash fights much like Kloby. He keeps after his opponent every minute he is in the ring. He can also deliver a wallop from almost any angle. And when Bogash scores his opponent has a difficult time remaining on his feet.

It was Bogash's aggressive style of scrapping which enabled him to win the decision over Doyle at Brockton. He did not give the local favorite an opportunity to do much effective work with his long left lab.

Sam Driver, Bogash's manager, believes Doyle will take the count if hit hard enough on the jaw.

"Few of Doyle's opponents have been able to hit him solidly. This is due to the Boston boxer's remarkable speed and ability to score with a left jab or hook.

"At Brockton Bogash kept in top of Doyle at all times. The result was that Doyle was unable to do much effective boxing. Bogash piled up a fine lead and won handily. At Mechanics Building tonight it is Bogash's intention to force the issue from the opening of the first round in the hope of scoring a k.o.

AFTER KLOBY.

"A match with Kloby is Bogash's objective. To date the T. D. champion has only been opposed by clever boxers. Not one of his opponents could punch. No wonder Kloby has been able to keep rushing in with head lowered. If Kloby should follow such a line of campaign in a tussle with Bogash, Lawrence's ring idol would take the count of ten."

As it will be another case of the master boxer against the fighter tonight, there should be few idle moments. It would be well for Bogash to remember that Doyle can punch as well as box. Doyle's right hand wallop is a beauty.

We first saw Doyle in action against Terry Bronks at the Arena a few years back. Terry hit the mat on numerous occasions, and had a hard time going the distance. At that time there were not a whole lot of boxers horsehoofs who took undue liberties with the champion of the North Station.

Reservations for tonight's contest may be secured at the Fenway A. A's new office at No. 84 School street, third floor. Tel. Main 1268-M.

Willie Corbett of Somerville will oppose Mack Murphy of Atlantic in the semi-final eight rounds. Young Corbiery of Gloucester will battle eight rounds with Gerard Gianni of Lawrence, while there will also be a six-round bout.

MURPHY ONLY SET UP FOR O'DOWD

By RINGSIDE.

The next time Stockyards Tommy Murphy encounters Middleweight champion Mike O'Dowd in the ring, if such an event ever comes to pass, he won't be so anxious as to use his head as a battering ram. For committing such an ungentlemanly act at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building Murphy was knocked out in three rounds by the St. Paul marvel.

The Chicago middleweight made his mistake in the second round. O'Dowd missed a couple of swings, and as the boxers came together Murphy butted his opponent over the left eye. "Break and fight," hissed O'Dowd as he pushed Murphy away from him.

There was a slight mark over O'Dowd's left eye at the end of the round, but it looked as though he had only suffered a slight bruise.

RUSHED MURPHY.

After the men had been boxing for a minute in the third session the blood began to trickle from the wound inflicted by Murphy's head. The drops of red claret wended their way merrily down across the champion's cheek. He rubbed his left glove across his face and then looked at it. He saw the blood stains on his glove and like a flash realised what had caused his trouble.

"You (this is a family newspaper so pardon the omission of a choice remark sometimes used by Ringside on other occasions by persons not so prominent)," snarled O'Dowd.

The champion then went at Murphy as though the latter was responsible for the war, the high rents and all kinds of profiteering. He rocked the Chicago middleweight with deadly smashes to the body, and then dropped him to the canvas with a right-hand blow to the jaw.

THREW IN TOWEL.

Murphy managed to get up at the count of six, but was all through. Another smash to the jaw put him down for the count of five. Just as O'Dowd was about to put over the finishing wallop, a towel came flying from Murphy's corner and Referee Hector McInnis stopped the tussle.

Maybe if Murphy had been a nice boy and behaved himself O'Dowd would have permitted him to have gone the distance. But the Chicago middleweight wouldn't be good. He employed rough tactics, and you can't get far with such methods when pitted against the boss of our noble middleweights.

Murphy was no match for O'Dowd. He even didn't seem to be possessed of the least spark of confidence in his own ability. When he entered the ring, he appeared as though he had an attack of stage-fright. And he never recovered from it.

Although beaten decisively, Murphy proved he is game. In the first round, Murphy took a severe beating around the body. O'Dowd scored with deadly smashes which would have caused a less courageous battler to have taken the count.

SHIFTED ATTACK.

O'Dowd shifted his attack to Murphy's jaw in the second frame. He missed many blows, but got enough over to take about all the pep out of the Windy City scrapper.

Then Murphy forgot himself so far as to use his head as a weapon. The events narrated above then occurred.

There is no denying that O'Dowd is one of the most likeable men in the boxing game, but when you try to spoil the facial beauty of a champion—well, there's a limit to even the patience of title holders nowadays.

In the semi-final of eight rounds Burt Jones of Revere easily defeated K. O. Charley Elkins of the South End.

Young Gold of Brockton continued his winning streak, by stopping Young Riley of Whitman in two rounds, while Larry Malia of South Boston and Johnny Lyons of Chelsea went six rounds to a draw.

DISTRIBUTING THE PRIZES

OWING to the wild hairs in the telephone service, the work of awarding of the 1919 prize is progressing slowly. With the temperature about eleven degrees below the last Populist vote, there is much difficulty in getting combustion in the adding machine. However, there is no doubt that the Kaiser gets the burnt sienna derby, as none but a king may wear the brown diadem.

Other Awards

Tommy Lipton gets the crocheted wishbone.

Bill Bryan grabs the rubber corkscrew.

Telephone company becomes sole lessee of the hand-painted oil can.

Sec. Daniels—The barbed wire necktie. Donated by Ad. Sims.

Landlords—The poisoned olives.

The Elevated—The cement earmuffs.

The Reds get the dynamite gum drops.
The Reds get the dynamite gumdrops.

Ticket Speculators—The chilled steel wrist warmers.

Surface lines are awarded the frozen radiator.

Pussyfoot Johnson gets the pneumatic lamb chops.

Congress—The revolving ouija board.

THE two-story shoes belong to the Crownless Prince. The janitor gets the red-hot mittens, to have and to hold. The celluloid frying pan goes to the billposter who puts all those labels on a litney loaf of bread. In order that Barleson may enjoy pleasant slumbers, the rock-ballasted mattress is sent, along with a vote of confidence from the Board of Directors of Matteawan University. Snappy young men get the snappy young men's clothing with the freshly honed lapels and the concrete filled buttonholes. Among the vamps, Theda Bara is donated the lavalliere of priceless tomato cans. Bill Crutchfield, the best cowboy on Summer street, gets the pasteboard limousine with the paper engine. Bill won the Keene's Chop House rodeo when he roped, threw and branded Izzy Kaplan in ten seconds.

JOE BECKETT wins the plush-lined garbage pail, which is a permanent trophy like a squint eye or a bald head.

MILWAUKEE brewers and Kentucky distillers must compete for the last prize. But the guy who gets eliminated from the morbid tournament is the gent who gets the kerosene-filled fire extinguisher.

THE election board is still counting the hemy unpolled vote from the outlying counties, but the opposition concedes the folding stomach pump to the guy with a thirst. Oh! wood alcohol where is thy victory? Oh! malted milk, where is thy sting?

MOONEY AND CALZONE IN RETURN BATTLE

Johnny Mooney of Newton and Al Calzone of Milford have been signed for a return battle. For several weeks the fans of Worcester county have been eager to see this team paired. There were several things the managers of the men could not agree upon, such as weight, referee and distance. Everything has been brushed aside with the exception of selecting a referee.

The weight will be 135 pounds and the bout will be staged at Pastime Hall, Marlboro, on February 6. The distance will be twelve rounds and forfeits for weight and appearance will be posted by the boys.

Basketball Notes

The Brophy Five will meet the Fitton A. C. basketball players at Lakeside Hall, West End, in the first of a three-game series Saturday night. Although the hall has a pretty large seating capacity fans wishing to see any part of the game should be on deck early. The teams are ardent rivals, and last year when they had won one game, had to call it a draw.

The St. James Midgets of Boston challenge any ninety pound team in Greater Boston. They have fifteen victories to their credit. Write to Irving Casey, No. 6 Nesca's avenue, or phone Beach 6027 any night between 6 and 7.

PAVILION GAMES TRIALS FOR OLYMPICS

PAVILION LINEUP.

Bower, r.w.	l.w.	Baron
Turk, c.p.	c.p.	Walker

Holden, g.	g.	J. Holmes

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

With an Olympic aspect now attached to every hockey game played in the Ice Pavilion this week, schedule gets under way tonight with the Dartmouth Club [illegible] Harvard Varsity.

The Olympic aspect develops in the arrangement made by National Amateur Hockey association officials, whereby George V. Brown, secretary of the B. A. A. and of the Boston Amateur Hockey League, has been given the task of selecting the All-Boston team which will be entered in an elimination tournament, the winner of which will represent the U. S. A. in the Olympic hockey championships at Antwerp. On the play of the local hockey artists during the next two weeks will depend Secretary Brown's selection for positions on the All-Boston seven.

MAKES FOR SPEED.

With this as an added inducement to the players, tonight's Harvard-Dartmouth Club clash should produce an exceedingly speedy brand of this popular ice sport, for in both lineups are men who merit consideration for All-Boston positions. The Dartmouth Club's leading entries are Captain Lord [illegible] and Johnnie Murphy, while Harvard's—providing college men are to be considered for the team—are Bigelow, Bacon and Stubbs.

Which, because of his all-around ability and his lengthy experience in the game, appears a most likely selection for the All-Boston team. On the Dartmouth Club he plays an outer defensive position, but is equally effective in the forward line. Murphy is another man who must be considered for the All-Boston team. He has been the driving factor in the Dartmouth Club's attack, and during the current season has developed greater speed and more skill than he ever before displayed.

PLAYING TIME IMPORTANT.

Much is likely to depend on the [illegible] reached as to the playing time of the game. Harvard, possessing many substitutes and reflecting no success in a three-period game with Yale desires that tonight's contest be a three-period affray, instead of a two-period game such as is customary in league contests, and if the Dartmouth array accedes to this request the Harvard sextet will gain a tremendous advantage owing to the fact the Dartmouth Club has no substitutes to replace its regulars should the latter become fatigued.

A noticeable improvement was evidenced in the play of the Harvard varsity last Saturday, and should the Crimsonites perform up to their Saturday standard, and in addition arrange to have the contest staged in three instead of two periods, the Dartmouth Club will be forced to the very limit of its ability and a Crimson victory would be surprising.

A special dispensation was granted by N. A. H. A. officials handling the selection of the American Olympic hockey team whereby Boston may enter an All-Boston team, instead of a team regularly representing one of the Boston clubs.

* * *

Taking a wild, free guess at the makeup of the two teams that will oppose each other for All-Boston selection we would say their makeup will be confined to the following fourteen players: Donahue, Dartmouth Club, goal; Tuck, Dartmouth Club, Shilton, B. A. A.; O'Sullivan, B. A. A., and Irving Small, outer defence; Hutchinson, B. A. A.; Downing, B. A. A.; Hitke, Harvard Club; Percy, Harvard Club; Murphy, Dartmouth Club; Geran, B. A. A.; Healy, Yankee Division, and Bennett, forwards.

* * *

The American Olympic hockey team will be a six-man outfit and will be permitted to carry two substitute players.

Kloby Mayor's Choice As City Messenger of Lawrence

Lawrence, Jan. 21.—Tommie Kloby, Cornerman T. D. champion, is said to be the choice of Mayor William P. White for the position of city messenger. Dennis Quinn, the present messenger, and his assistant will be replaced by war veterans, according to the statement of Mayor White. The latter states that Quinn replaced a veteran and his own replacement by a veteran is a fair consequence.

ART SMITH MAY TRAIN POLISH OLYMPIC TEAM

Art Smith, coach of the Tufts track team and trainer of its football men, may groom the athletes of Poland for the coming Olympic games at Antwerp, Belgium.

It was learned here yesterday that the National Sporting Club of Poland through the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., had made an attractive offer to the Tufts mentor. The latter scored many successes as track coach at the University of Maine and is regarded as one of the most proficient developers of track and field athletes in the East. He was assistant to the late Mike Murphy at one time and learned much of the lore of the cinder game from the latter.

Coach Smith stated yesterday he was undecided on the matter of accepting the offer, and that he plans to confer with the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. in New York before definitely accepting or rejecting the assignment.

STAR HURDLE MEN TO COMPETE IN B. A. A. GAMES

Some of the most prominent timbertoppers in the amateur ranks will compete in the 45-yard hurdle event at the B. A. A. meet, February 7, according to present plans being laid by Manager George V. Brown.

Invitations to compete have been sent to Bill Sylvester of the University of Missouri, Carl Erdman of Princeton, Earl Thomson of Dartmouth and George Kregness of Harvard. Bill Meanix and H. H. Hile of the B. A. A. also are entered.

Sylvester is a cousin of the noted Bob Simpson and was a point-winner at the interallied meet last summer. Simpson speaks highly of his ability and his past performances make him a drawing card.

Erdman holds the intercollegiate hurdle championship in the outdoor events. These two pitted against Thomson, Meanix, Hile and Kregness assure us the highest grade racing over the sticks that New England has witnessed in years.

THANK HEARST AND AMERICAN FOR ATTITUDE

The members of the John Mitchell Branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, in their campaign for recognition of the Irish Republic, extended a vote of thanks to the Boston American and William Randolph Hearst for their stand on "true Americanism."

The meeting was held at Mishawum Hall, Charlestown, and the resolutions were signed by all the members including eighty-three world war veterans. Prominent among the veterans was First Lieutenant Patrick J. Grealey, financial secretary of the organization. He served with the famous 9th Regiment of Marines, 2nd Division, overseas, and is also a veteran of the Cuban War and the Philippine campaigns.

The branch also sent a cablegram of congratulation to Arthur Griffiths, vice-president of the Irish Republic, Dublin, on the Sinn Fein victory at the polls last Thursday, and a telegram of a similar nature to President DeValera of the Irish Republic, at present in New York.

The organization protested the alleged act of a British officer, who, it is charged, while on board the captured Kaiserin Augusta Victoria in New York harbor, threw an American flag on the deck and twice stamped upon it. A resolution demanding a thorough investigation by the government was passed and a copy of the resolution sent to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

HOUSEWARMING TO OPEN NEW PAGE & SHAW PLANT

The newest Page & Shaw chocolate factory, located at No. 24 Ames street, Cambridge, will be formally opened. It is announced, by a housewarming, concert and dance on January 24. Plans are going forward under the direction of Harry S. Curtis, chairman of the general committee, and employes and friends of the company have been invited. An inspection of the building will precede the musical program and dancing.

Sealing Wax in the Middle Ages

WAX seals were used as far back as 1350 in England. Most of them consisted of a mixture of beeswax and resin, others of pure beeswax. Two seals in the Public Record office in London of the dates 1399 and 1423, respectively, were composed of wax.

THE CINEMA MURDER

By E. Phillips Oppenheim

A Thrilling Mystery Film Serial of Love and Poverty With the Scene Laid in London and New York

"The Cinema Murder" in motion pictures, with Miss Marion Davies as the charming heroine, a Cosmopolitan production, is being shown this week at the Bowdoin Square Theatre in Boston and at theatres in several surrounding cities. Screened under direction of George D. Baker. Presented by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a Paramount-Artcraft Picture.

"NOW get back, please, to your chair," she begged. "You've stilled the horrible, miserable little doubt that was tearing at my heart-strings. I just had it before, once or twice, and then—isn't it foolish?—your telling me about this little typewriter girl! I must go and see her. We must be kind to her."

He resumed his seat with a little sigh.

"She thought a great deal more of me and my work, when I told her that you were probably going to act in my play."

More Serious

Her expression changed. She was more serious, at the same time more eager.

"Ah! The play!" she exclaimed. "I can see that you have brought some of it."

He drew the roll of manuscript from his pocket.

"Shall I read it?" he suggested.

She almost snatched it away. No! I can't wait for that. Give it to me, quickly."

She leaned forward so that the firelight fell upon the pages. Little strands of soft brown hair dropped over her face. In studying her Philip almost forgot his own anxiety. He had known the few women, yet he had watched so many from afar off, endowed them with their natural qualities, built up their lives and tastes for them, and found them all so sadly wanting. To him, Elizabeth represented everything that was desirable in her from the flowing lines of her beautiful body to the sympathy which seemed to be always shining out of her eyes.

Notwithstanding her strength, she was so exquisitely and entirely feminine, a creature of silk and laces, free from any effort of provocativeness, yet subtly, almost clamorously human. He forgot, in those few moments, that she had become the actress of his material fortune, that he was a humble author, watching the effect of his first attempts upon a mistress in her profession. He remembered only that she was the woman who was filling his life, stealing into every corner of it, permeating him with love, painting him onwards towards a life indescribable, unrealizable. • • •

Swung Towards Him

She swung suddenly towards him. There was a certain amount of enthusiasm in her face but even more marked was her relief.

"Oh! -I am so glad," she cried. "You know, I have had qualms. When you told me the story in your own words, picking your language so carefully, and building it all up before me, well, you know what I said. I gave you more than hope—I promised you success. And then, when I got away into the hard, stagey world of Chicago, and my manager talked business to me, and my last playwright preached of technique, I began to wonder whether, after all, you could bring your ideas together like this, whether you would have the sense of perspective—you know what I mean, don't you? And you have it, and the play is going to be wonderful, and I shall produce it. Why don't you look pleased, Mr. Author? You are going to be famous."

He smiled.

"I don't care about fame," he said. "And for the rest, I think I knew."

"Conceited" she exclaimed.

"It wasn't that," he protested. "It was simply when I sat down in that little room, high up over the roofs and buildings of a strange city, shut myself in and told myself that it was for you—well, the thoughts came too quickly. They tumbled over one another. And when I looked away from my work, I saw the people moving around me, and I knew that I had made my dreams real, and that's the great thing, isn't it

• • •

Elizabeth?"

Lonely There

"I am lonely in that little room."

"You lonely, taking out typewriters to dine" she mocked tenderly.

"It is lonely," he repeated, "and I am afraid of you here in all this luxury. I am so far away. I come from my attic to this, and I am afraid. Do you know why?"

She sat quite still for a moment. Dimly she felt the presage of a coming change in their relations. Up to now she had been the mistress, she had held him so easily in check with her practised skill, with an unfinished sentence, a look, a touch. And now the man was rising up in him, and she felt her powers weaken.

"Shall I change my abode?" she murmured.

"Ah! but you would be just as wonderful and as far away even if we changed places—if you sat in my attic and I took your place here. That isn't why I torture myself, why I am always asking myself if you are real, if the things we talk about are real, if the things we feel belong to ourselves, well up from our own hearts for one another or are just the secondary emotions of other people's lives up without knowing why. This is foolish, but you understand—you do understand. It is because you keep me so far away from yourself, when my fingers are burning for yours, when even to touch your face, to feel your cheek against mine, would banish every fear I have ever had. Elizabeth, you do understand. I have never kissed you. I have never held you for a moment in my arms—and I love you!"

He was leaning over her chair and she held him tightly by the shoulders. There was nothing left of that hidden fear in his dark eyes. They shone now with another light, and she began to tremble.

"I wanted to wait a little. Philip, but if you feel like that—well, I can't."

He took her silently into his arms. With the half closing of her eyes, the first touch of her responsive lips, himself dimly conscious of the change, he passed into the world where stronger men live.

BOOK III.

CHAPTER I.

THREE months later, a very different Philip stood in the smaller of a handsome suite of reception rooms in a fashionable Fifth Avenue hotel. He was wearing evening clothes of the most approved cut and carried himself with a dignity and assurance entirely transforming. The distinction of birth and breeding, little apparent in those half-starved, passionate days of his misery, had come easily to the surface. His shoulders, too, seemed to have broadened, and his face had lost its cadaverous pallor.

The apartment in which he stood was plainly but handsomely furnished as a small withdrawing room. On the oak chiffonier stood a silver tray on which were half a dozen frosted cocktails. Through the curtains was apparent a room beyond, in which a round table, smothered with flowers, was arranged for supper, in the distance, from the public restaurant, came the sound of softly played music. Philip glanced at the clock.

Appeared in Doorway

A maitre d'hotel appeared in the space between the two rooms, and bowed.

"Everything is quite ready, Mr. Ware," he said, in the friendly yet deferential manner of an American head-waiter. "Won't you take a cocktail, sir, while you are waiting?"

"Very thoughtful of you, Louis. I think I will," Philip assented, taking a little case from his pocket and lighting a cigarette.

The man passed him a glass upon a small salver.

"You'll pardon the liberty, I am sure, sir," he continued, dropping his voice a little. "I've just heard that 'The House of Shams' seems to be a huge success, sir. If I might take the liberty of offering my congratulations!"

Philip smiled genially.

"You are the first, Louis," he said. "Thank you very much indeed."

"I think you will find the supper everything that could be desired, Mr. Ware," the man went on. "Our head chef, Monsieur Deconnet, has given it his personal attention. The wine will be slightly iced, as you desired. I shall be outside in the corridor in case there are guests."

"Capital, Louis!" Ware replied, sipping his cocktail. "It will be another quarter of an hour yet before we see anything of them, I am afraid."

Again Alone

The man disappeared and left Philip once more alone. He looked through the walls of the room as though, indeed, he could see into the packed theatre and could hear the cries for "Author!" which even then were echoing through the house. From the moment when Elizabeth, abandoning her reserve, had given him the love he craved, a new strength seemed to have shone out of the man. Step by step he had thought out subtly and with infinite care every small detail of his life. It was he who had elected to live those three months in absolute seclusion. It was he, indirectly, who had arranged that many photographs of Douglas Romilly, the English shoe manufacturer, should appear in the newspapers. From the moment a horror he had certainly had. He could see the little paragraph now, almost lost in the shadow of more important news:

GHASTLY DISCOVERY IN A DERBYSHIRE CANAL

Yesterday the police recovered the body of a man who had apparently been dead for some weeks, from a canal close to Dethon Magna. The body was unrecognisable, but it is believed that the remains are those of Mr. Philip Romilly, the missing art teacher of London, who is alleged to have committed suicide in January last.

The thought of that gruesome find scarcely blanched his cheeks. His nerves now were stronger and tenser things. His crushed back those memories with all the strength of his will. Whatever might lie behind, he had struck for the future which he meant to live and enjoy. They were only weaklings whos brooded over an unalterable past. It was for the present and the near future that he lived, and both, in that moment, were more alluring than ever before. Even his intellectual powers seemed to have developed in his new found happiness. The play which he had written, every line of which appeared to gain in vital and literary force towards its conclusion, was only the first of his children. Already other images and ideas were flowing into his brain. The power of creation was triumphantly throwing out its tendrils. He was filled with an amazing and almost inspired confidence. He was ready to start upon fresh work that hour, tomorrow, or when he chose.

And before him now was the prospect of stimulating companionship. Elizabeth and he had decided that the time had come for him to take his fate into his hands.

The Two Voices

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

WHEN he had lain down, she drew the rug up over his knees.

"Come here, close to me," he begged, holding out his hand to her.

She sank into a chair at his side and took his outstretched hand in hers. Her fingers were cold and trembling, but so were his.

"You are going to be well soon now, Hugh," she forced herself to say. "I am so glad you are back here at home, where he can know from day to day just how you are."

"Doesn't it make any difference, Doris?" he faltered. "Can you—I mean—do you love me just as much now that I am all battered up like this?"

Overcoming her sense of fear, she compelled herself to look at that part of his face unhidden by the bandage covering his eyes.

"Of course I can, dear," she managed to reply.

She shivered as she gazed at him. He was very thin and very white, and as he lay there with the upper half of his face partially concealed by a bandage, he looked entirely unlike the man she knew.

"Hugh," she ventured, "must you keep your bandage on all the time? I mean—has the doctor said you must?"

"No," he confessed, "he says I may take it off whenever I want to. But, dear, I was afraid to have you see me without it. Yet you will have to sooner or later—and I suppose I am a coward for postponing the ordeal. We have to stand it, do you know—no matter how I look."

And before she could check him, he jerked off the bandage and turned his sightless eyes toward her.

A Great Shock

She stared at him, at first startled, then horrified.

The eyes were wide and clear, as they had always been. His father had spoken truly when he said that little was no apparent injury to lids or eyeballs.

Yet, as Doris Courtney looked, she shuddered and shrank back, scarcely suppressing an exclamation of terror.

For the eyes of her lover stared at nothing with the awful stare of the blind. They retired deep into the past and beyond her. The eager and wistful curve of the man's lips was not matched by any expression in the blank gaze.

She could have stood disfigurement better, Doris Courtney told herself as the dark curve rolled about, then seemed to focus on some object, only to wander off again. She wanted to scream.

She drew in her breath sharply, and at the sound the man covered his face with his hands as if to hide something shameful.

"This is what I was afraid of," he groaned. "I might have known how it would be."

His words warned the girl of his danger. She must say something to calm him.

"It's all right, dear—really it's all right," she began.

But he interrupted her, excitedly.

"If it's all right, why did you gasp like that?"

"Only because I was sorry for you, dear," she insisted.

But, as he turned his sightless eyes in her direction once more, her self-control deserted her.

"I—I—she stammered—"I hear some one calling me, Hugh. I will be right back."

"What are you running away from?" he demanded. "Doris, is it because you cannot stand the way I look? Is it because"——

He was sitting up now, trying to peer through the darkness.

"Oh, no, no!" she burst forth. "It is only because I hear some one calling. Just let me go for a minute. I will be right back, Hugh; really I will."

Then, turning, she fled from the room, leaving him alone.

CHAPTER XVIII.

IN the drawing room Ruth Courtney waited.

She did not know why she waited. She might as well go home, she reflected. Now that Doris was with Hugh and had seen just how he looked, she (Ruth) could be of no further use here.

She told herself moodily that she was of no use anywhere. While Hugh was away she had felt it her duty to look after Doris, yet even that task had been futile. Doris have to sooner or later—and I suppose I am a coward for postponing the ordeal. We have to stand it, do you know—no matter how I look."

CHAPTER XVIII.

IN the drawing room Ruth Courtney waited.

She did not know why she waited. She might as well go home, she reflected. Now that Doris was with Hugh and had seen just how he looked, she (Ruth) could be of no further use here.

She told herself moodily that she was of no use anywhere. While Hugh was away she had felt it her duty to look after Doris, yet even that task had been futile. Doris had not been disconsolate, or, if she had, had not come to her younger sister for comfort. Instead, she had evidently found solace in the companionship of a man whom Ruth did not trust, but of whom her mother approved.

Even after the first shock of the news of Hugh's accident, Doris had turned to her mother and to Ralph Norton—not to her sister.

But this morning, when the girl had learned that she must face a painful duty, she had begged Ruth to accompany her. Perhaps it was only in unbearable places that she needed the other's support and presence.

Poor Hugh! What was anybody's trouble compared to his? Blind, his father had said. Even now Ruth Courtney could not grasp the fact of this calamity.

She tried to picture him deprived of his sight, walking as she had seen other blind men walk, led slowly where he had been wont to go rapidly, guided where he had been in the habit of guiding others.

All at once tears rushed to her eyes. She declared to her soul that she could not stand having Hugh blind. She could not bear this thing, that somehow she must help him, that she would gladly suffer herself to spare him this agony.

A Sad Picture

Yet there was only one human being who could really lighten his darkness, and that was Doris, the girl he loved. Surely she would do this. Ruth was powerless, even though she had promised to keep his happiness safe for him.

Well it was safe. Doris was with him, was even now telling him that her desire was to be ever for him, to stay with him always, to make night day for him.

Ruth's conscience smote her again. She had been wrong to wonder how Doris would take this new state of affairs. Her evident emotion when she heard of Hugh's blindness had been her natural grief for him. Yet at the time Ruth had actually fancied that it had been a shrinking from——

She sprang suddenly to her feet as she heard the library door open. Someone was running down the stairs. One instant later, Doris rushed into the drawing room.

"Oh," she burst forth, "you will have to go up and talk to Hugh! He is going all to pieces—but I can't help it if he is! I can't stand it—I tell you I can't stand it!"

Ruth caught her sister by the shoulders. "What do you mean?" she demanded.

"I mean that I can't stand being with him!" the other wailed. "He is awful—all thin and pale—and dreadful!

"That was bad enough—goodness knows—but then he took the bandage off his eyes! He is to keep it off if he wishes. And his eyes—Oh, Ruth—they make me sick and frightened! I tell you I cannot stand it—and I won't!"

The Rebuke Courteous

A sporting parson was once taken in hand by a Quaker. "Friend," said the Quaker, "I understand thee's clever at fox-catching." "I have few equals and no superiors at that sport," the parson replied. "Nevertheless, friend," said the Quaker, "if I were a fox I would hide where thee would never find me." "Where would you hide?" asked the parson. "Friend," said the Quaker, "I would hide in thy study."

A Rule of Etiquette

Little Frankie, while being reprimanded by his teacher for some misdemeanor, sat mute. Then, leaving her standing. She scorned him that no gentleman should seat himself while the lady with whom he is conversing remains standing. "But this is a lecture," replied Frankie, "and I am the audience."

THE VALLEY OF THE GIANTS

Thrilling Romance in Which a Girl Helps Win Big Fight in the Logging Region

By Peter B. Kyne

THAT night Bryce and his father, as was their custom after dinner, repaired to the library, where the burning and motherly Mrs. Tully served their coffee. This good soul, after the democratic fashion in vogue in many Western communities, had never been regarded as a servant; neither did she so regard herself. She was John Cardigan's housekeeper, and as such she had for a quarter of a century served father and son their meals and then seated herself at the table with him. This arrangement had but one way back, although this did not present itself until after Bryce's return to Sequoia and his assumption of the direction of the Cardigan destinies.

For Mrs. Tully had a failing common to many of her sex: she possessed for other people's business an interest absolutely incapable of satisfaction—and she was, in addition, garrulous beyond belief. The library was the one spot in the house which at the beginning of her employment John Cardigan had indicated to Mrs. Tully as sanctuary for him and his; hence, having served the coffee this evening, the amiable creature withdrew, although not without a pang as she reflected upon the probable nature of their conversation and the void which must inevitably result by reason of the absence of her advice and friendly co-operation and sympathy.

Closed Door

No sooner had Mrs. Tully departed than Bryce rose and closed the door behind her. John Cardigan opened the conversation with a contented grunt:

"Pine the keyhole, son," he continued. "I believe you have something on your mind—and you know how Mrs. Tully resents the closing of that door. Estimable soul that she is, I have known her to eavesdrop. Now, don't help it, poor thing! She was born that way."

Bryce clipped a cigar and held a lighted match, while his father "smoked up." Then he slipped into the easy-chair beside the old man.

"Well, John Cardigan," he began eagerly, "I've clipped a big hole in our dark cloud the other day and showed me some of the silver lining. I've been making bad medicine for Colonel Pennington, Partner, the pill I'm rolling for that gentleman accomplished will surely nauseate him when he swallows it."

"What's in the wind, boy?"

"We're going to parallel Pennington's logging-road."

"Inasmuch as that will cost close to three-quarters of a million dollars, I'm of the opinion that we're not going to do anything of the sort."

"Perhaps. Nevertheless, if I can demonstrate to a certain party that it will not cost more than three quarters of a million, he'll loan me the money."

The old man shook his head. "I don't believe it, Bryce. Who's the crazy man?"

"His name is Gregory. He's Scotch."

"Now I know he's crazy. When he hands you the money, you'll find he's talking real money but thinking of Confederate greenbacks. For a sane Scotchman to loan that money without collateral security would be equivalent to exposing his spinal cord and and tickling it with a rat-tail file."

Bryce laughed. "Pah!" he declared, "if you and I have any brains, they must roll around in our skulls like buckshot in a tin pan. Here we've been sitting for three month, and twiddling our thumbs, or lying awake nights trying to scheme A way out of our difficulties, when if we'd had the sense that God gives geese we would have solved the problem long ago and ceased worrying. Listen, now, with all you ears. When Bill Henderson wanted to build the logging railroad which he afterward sold to Pennington, and which Pennington is now using as a club to beat our brains out, did he have the money to build it?"

Loaned Him

"No."

"Where did he get it?"

"I loaned it to him. He only had eight miles of road to build then, so I could afford to accommodate him."

"How did he pay you back?"

"Why, he gave me a ten-year contract for hauling our logs at a dollar and a half a thousand feet, and I merely credited his account with the amount of the freight-bills he sent me until he'd squared up the loan, principal and interest."

"Well, if Bill Henderson financed himself on that plan, why didn't we think of using the same time-honored plan for financing a road to parallel Pennington's?"

John Cardigan sat up with a jerk. "By thunder!" he murmured. That was as close as he ever came to uttering an oath. "By thunder!" he repeated. "I never thought of that! But then," he added, "I'm not so young as I used to be, and there are any number of ideas which would have occurred to me twenty years ago but do not occur to me now."

"All right, John Cardigan. I forgive you. Now, then, continue to listen: There's a big chunk of that great block of timber held by you and Pennington in the redwood holdings of the Trinidad Redwood Timber Company."

"Never heard of them before."

"Well, timber away in there in back of beyond has never been well advertised, because it is practically inaccessible. By extending his logging-road and mills to the rolling country I've been making bad medicine for Colonel Pennington, Partner, the pill I'm rolling for that gentleman accomplished will surely nauseate him when he swallows it."

"What's in the wind, boy?"

"We're going to parallel Pennington's logging-road."

"Inasmuch as that will cost close to three-quarters of a million dollars, I'm of the opinion that we're not going to do anything of the sort."

The Cure for Unsound Radicalism Is Genuine and Liberal Democracy

Editor the American:

The people in this country who would foment or desire a revolution against our government while our government is conducted as a genuine democracy, conducted as a government of the people, by the people and for the people, and with the object of securing "the greatest good for the greatest number," is so small as to be absolutely negligible.

But the number of people in this country who would oppose, and even labor to overthrow, a government which had degenerated into an autocracy of wealth, conducted in the interests of the privileged few, and oppressively opposed to the welfare of the many, would be very great.

Now, the object of our governing classes, and particularly of those who profit most by present conditions and are most anxious to maintain them, is to prevent discontent and to discourage revolution, even peaceful political revolution, which would radically change the social, political and economic system.

Why, then, take the steps and pursue the policies which are most calculated to excite discontent and arouse class antagonism?

If the more autocratic a government becomes the more it arouses the opposition of the masses, why make our government more and more autocratic and so more and more excite popular dissatisfaction?

Why not make our government more soundly and sensibly democratic, and so DIMINISH popular dissatisfaction?

Of course, we cannot expect the "malefactors of great wealth," as Roosevelt called them; the "communists of wealth," as Cleveland called them, to take steps in the direction of greater democracy. They are not only too selfish, but too shortsighted to see the advisability and the advantage of such a liberal course.

The Bourbons of High Finance are no different from any other Bourbons. They never forget and they never learn. They never see beyond the nose of their own immediate greed.

But why should the rest of us who have a little property allow ourselves to be overwhelmed in the cataclysm which these Bourbons of High Finance, these Autocrats of Great Wealth, are stupidly inclined to bring upon themselves and upon everyone else?

Is it not time that the average, sensible, well-to-do American citizen realized that autocratic government does not crush dissatisfaction, but emphatically does create it, and that the remedy for unsound and extreme radicalism is genuine and liberal democracy?

The world is constantly progressing in the direction of greater political power, greater economic and social advantage for the masses. Government must advance in this progressive direction.

Education and civilization have made the plain citizen everywhere more capable of successful self-government, more deserving of the political rights and social and economic benefits he demands.

The government which does not recognize these facts and progress to meet them is becoming daily antiquated and obsolete.

Our government needs no new fundamental principles. But it needs in every new era new plans and policies, new measures and methods to apply our fundamental principles correctly to new conditions.

We have entered upon a new era and we must meet the demands of the people for a more liberal democracy by giving them a greater voice in government and greater benefits from our social and economic systems.

We cannot satisfy or silence a just demand by attempts at tyrannical oppression.

The Democratic party should give the people the better democracy they demand, and if it does not it should surrender its place to a new party which has a more accurate understanding of American principles and purposes.

Mr. Skeffington Should Be Removed From Office

The American agrees absolutely with the Harvard Liberal Club ew of the impropriety of Mr. Skeffington's public utterances. s is impulsive, rather uninformed and, therefore, without the pacity to sympathize with big human movements except when otionally moved by something that comes to his personal attenon. He should be removed from office.

His offence in designating publicly the recent Lawrence strike a Bolshevist uprising was very grave indeed because he made e statement as a public official and presumably for the informaon of Secretary of Labor Wilson, his chief, who had certain responsibility in the situation, if not an affirmative responsibility, at lesst a negative responsibility not to abuse the credit of his office by making false statements concerning the character of the objects of a great body of workingmen on a strike.

It is significant that after Mr. Skeffington declared the Lawrence strike to be a Bolshevist uprising, his chief, Secretary Wilson, characterized it likewise and sent through the country another officially manufactured chill concerning red revolutions and Bolshevism in America. When Secretary Wilson learned the utter falsity of this statement and yet kept Mr. Skeffington in office, we presumed that Secretary Wilson was responsible for Mr. Skeffington's statement and was anxious for this excuse to abuse his office as Secretary of Labor to injure the cause of a large body of laboring men.

However, much would be gained by removing Mr. Skeffington.

A Scandal Which Must Not Be

If there is any basis to the recurring reports that the bringing home of the bodies of American soldiers who died abroad is looked upon by some associations of undertakers and embalmers as an opportunity for profiteering there should be prompt and effective action of the government to protect the relatives of the dead from any such scheme.

No holier promise was ever made than that the authorities at Washington would guarantee the return to home shores of the remains of those men who gave their lives at its command.

By definite public proclamation it should now reiterate that romise, supplementing it with a warning to those who are being portuned to pay privately for the service that no such expendire is necessary.

There are those who will prefer that their loved ones shall ntinue to rest in the soil which their blood made sacred as well free. There are others who will wish that those whom they ved and sacrificed shall sleep nearer to the homes which knew em in life.

The former should be assured that the mounds which cover ir dead will be maintained and guarded as befits the last rest-ng place of any American soldier. The latter should be protected from an avarice which would not hesitate to profit out of grief nor mint for itself a miserable dollar out of worry and distress.

There must be no scandal, private or public, about the return of the army of the American dead.

Letters to the Editor

Real Man and Soldier

Editor Boston American:

There has been forwarded to me a copy of your editorial captioned, "Comrades of Major Lee will mourn his loss deeply," printed in the Boston American under date of January 7, 1920. Permit me to express to you the gratitude of my family for this splendid tribute to the memory of my brother, Major Christopher F. Lee. No better characterization of his personality could be desired than this: "'Chris' Lee, real man among men, real soldier among soldiers."

Who Is the Profiteer?

Editor Boston American:

I am a traveling man. My business is selling hosiery, underwear, handkerchiefs, etc., to retailers. Naturally I am greatly interested in the big question of "Who's the profiteer?" and in writing you to say a few words in defence of the retail merchants, because, according to the impression prevailing among a great many people, the retail merchant seems to be the one that is being blamed for the present high prices. The retail merchant is not only guiltless of profiteering, but in nine cases out of ten is not obtaining as much for his merchandise as he should if he followed the present market prices. In fact, there are a great many staple articles in my line that are being sold for less at retail than the retailers can purchase them for from the wholesalers. This is due to the fact that retailers purchased goods a few months back when the prices were lower, and are now selling them at only a normal profit. The retailer is paying an advance of away over 200 per cent., and in some cases nearer 400 per cent. over the 1914 and 1915 prices, and at retail in my line the prices have not increased nearly this much. I could name item after item, such as hosiery, underwear, etc., that is being sold at retail prices of 69 cents, $1.15 and $1.75, and these same items today cost the retailer $7.50, $15 and $22.50 per dozen at wholesale.

The wholesaler cannot be blamed, because he has had to pay the advance, the mill men say they have had to pay the producer of raw materials, and I suppose the producer has had to pay some one.

It's beyond me where the blame lays for profiteering, if there is any, and it seems to be beyond anyone else, but certainly the retailer is not to blame. W. J. C.

Calais, Me.

Where's the Traffic Squad?

Editor Boston American:

After reading in your paper Thursday morning about the woman being run over and killed at Kenmore street and Commonwealth avenue, I am taking the liberty of writing to you and wondering if through your paper you cannot get something done to wake the officials of Boston up to the fact that they would be doing a great deal of good by having proper protection for people who cross at Kenmore Station and also coming from Beacon street and Commonwealth avenue. Just a few weeks ago a woman was knocked down and hurt by a machine at the same place, and there have been three smash-ups by these automobile "racers" making time around the vicinity of Brookline avenue, Kenmore street and Commonwealth avenue.

There are many young girls, to say nothing of youngsters going to school and the general public who travel this way. As you see them coming around the corner of Beacon street up Brookline avenue, if they blow their horn it is when they almost see you go under the wheels, then swear and on their way. For the sake of the public, will you try, through your paper, to remedy this condition. You will certainly be thanked by more than one.

PEDESTRIAN.

The Making of Briquettes

Peat and chalk are being extensively used for briquetting in Canada. The peat is mixed with coal breeze and then pressed into briquettes. Such fuel has been found efficient and economical. Chalk also, of which there are large deposits in Canada, can be converted into a profitable fuel. If the chalk is pulverized and then combined with a certain percentage of breeze and solidified tar, the mixture being compressed into small briquettes or pebbles about the size of an egg, the briquettes burn with perfect satisfaction. The fuel has the advantage of being smokeless, has a high calorific value and burns freely.

By K. C. B.

East St. Louis, Ills.

DEAR Mr. K. C. B.—You have written about the thirsty dog and the Maltese cat, so I want you to know about two little pigs.

Grandmother has been in the country and now she is at my home. She told me a very strange story of two little pigs.

They were being raised pets and were being fed so much milk they bursted open. One died and the other one still lives. We know this old lady saw this and we want to know if a pig can burst open. They bursted open on the outside. Daddy says they can't, but mother thinks they would have bursted open on the inside. So please settle this affair.

Very anxious,
SUSIE M.

MY DEAR Susie.
IN THE hotel.
WHERE I live.
THERE IS a doctor.
BY THE name of Nagel.
AND JUST as soon.
AS I got your letter.
I WENT to him.
AND SHOWED it to him.
AND SAID to him.
"NOW, DR. Nagel
"I WANT you to tell me.
"ALL YOU know.
"ABOUT LITTLE pigs.
"THAT HAVE bursted open.
"FROM DRINKING milk."
AND THE doctor said.
"HE HAD never treated.
ANY LITTLE pigs.
BUT THAT lots of times.
THERE WERE little girls.
AND LITTLE boys.
WHO ATE too much.
AND WERE brought to him.
BUT HE couldn't remember.
THAT ANY of them.
HAD BURSTED open.
ALTHOUGH HE said.
THAT LOTS of them.
WERE AWFUL tight.
WHERE THEY'D ate so much.
AND WHEN I asked him.
ABOUT YOUR grandma.
THE DOCTOR said.
THAT IF grandma said.
SHE HAD seen the pigs.
THAT HAD bursted open.
THAT IT must be true.
AND HE also said.
WHEN HE was a boy.
HE HAD a grandma.
WHO USED to see things.
AND THEN tell him.
AND THAT ever since then.
HE'S BEEN going around.
LOOKING FOR the things
THAT HIS grandma saw.
AND HE'S made up his mind.
THAT THERE must be things.
THAT ONLY grandmas.
CAN EVER see.
AND I guess he's right.
BUT ANYWAY, Susie.
WHAT DADDY says.
AND WHAT mother says.
MAY BE all right.
BUT YOU must remember.
THAT NEITHER of them.
SAW THE little pigs.
AND THAT grandma did.
AND IF they bursted open.
WHY THEY bursted open.
AND THAT'S all there is to it.

I THANK you.

How Money Grows. Tanks to Shovel Snow. 3 Monkeys for a Text. "Shortage" Useful Word.

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1920.

This is thrift week. A savings bank the other day paid sixteen hundred odd dollars on a book the owner's father had deposited as a young man. Interest did the rest.

Each year trustees report on the fortune of an unhappy woman whose husband divorced her because she was insane, setting aside two millions to take care of her. Her estate amounts now to nine millions. It increased one million last year. The husband put the original millions into Standard Oil stocks, so the poor lady had the Rockefellers working for her. This case is exceptional in thrift, and in pathos. The woman with all the money lives in an asylum, pays five thousand dollars yearly to a doctor, thirty-six thousand dollars for board. The rest piles up, she knows nothing of it.

Red Indians sold Manhattan Island, heart of New York, for sixty guilders, twenty-four dollars, paid in rum, hatchets, knives and ornaments.

Wonderful is the earning power of money. If those Indians could have taken the cash and invested it, allowing interest to pile up, interest on interest, they would have now enough to buy New York City with all its buildings and wealth today.

Poverty is slavery. When old you will want a chance to look at the stars, contemplating your end without worrying about your landlord. Save your money. It is to the saved what quinine is to the African explorer.

The Reverend James Small, saving souls in Kansas City, displays in the pulpit three monkeys, to point a moral and demonstrate Darwin's folly. Henry Ward Beecher sold a yellow girl at auction from his pulpit to prove that slavery is wrong.

The Reverend Mr. Small says monkeys are faithful to their mates and before mating, "the male whips the female, and forever after the male is master of his household." This is interesting, but the plan of beating his wife does not weaken Darwin's theory.

Influenza is killing thousands. As you read about it consider private ownership of street car lines.

Coal was expensive, labor high, traction trusts wanted more, couldn't get all they wanted. One thing they could and did do. They cut off heat in the cars. A cold car means a cold and the beginning of a cold means influenza.

Some mourners will think over the beauties of private ownership.

If the street cars were owned by cities, politicians thinking about the voters would take care not to run cold cars.

A little sign hangs in many grocery store windows:

"Why worry about sugar? We can supply all you want. Come in."

The price being up to 24 cents a pound, you may have all the sugar you want. Convenient shortage made the 24-cent price.

Ditto coal. You can have all you want at double the old price.

Mr. Lewis of the Mine Workers wonders who gets the difference between the retail price and 93 cents a ton paid to mine workers. Innocent Mr. Lewis. Who does he suppose gets the difference? Very convenient thing, a "shortage." Coal miners tried a labor shortage, but government stopped that.

In many cities men are shoveling snow by hand.

One caterpillar tractor—the government has hundreds of them lying idle—could crawl over the snow, loading it into trucks hauled behind, and do the work of a thousand men.

Let those responsible for snow removal investigate, and construct experimentally a self loading and hauling snow wagon, using for power some "tank" with the heavy armor stripped off.
